REED AND DAWES CLASH AS FORMER RENEWS ASSAULT ON WORLD COURT

Missourian Takes Exception to Vice President's Radio Remarks — Answered From Chair.

SENATOR DENIES DELAYING TAX BILL

Chides "Super-Critics" —
He Remarks World Has Done Without Court
'Since Adam Was a Boy.'

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The smouldering bitterness in the Senate over Vice-President Dawes' continued attacks on the rules of that body flashed into fire today in the course of the anti-World Court speech by Senator Reed of Missouri—a continuation of the long speech which Reed began yesterday.
Reed took to himself a criticism
last night that the business of the Senate during the afternoon had been interrupted for an hour and a half by the reading of a magazine article sent to the desk by a Senator.

Dawes did not name Reed in his attack, but the Missouri Senator inferred that the remark applied to him, as he was well warranted. The only magazine article read into the record of the Senate yesterday was one by Andrew Carnegie, published in 1922, and this was read at the instance of Senator Reed as a part of his discussion of the court.

Reed today came back at the Vice President and the Senate Speaker in a speech which was a renewal of the assault on the court. Senator Copeland of New York was drawn into the fray by the Vice-President's retort.

Question of Taste.
After explaining his motive in having the Carnegie article read, Reed said: "I do not intend to attack the Vice President from this floor. He has no opportunity to reply, and when I see fit to attack a man in debate, I always want to do it where he can answer."
"It would, in my opinion, be indecent to attack him from the floor, and I leave it to his sense of decency whether it was decent for him to have attacked me over the radio last night. That is a matter of taste. Every man has his code of honor and his code of ethics,
and we must all decide those questions for ourselves."

This voice of the Missouri Senator was honeyed in its suavity. It was then that the Vice President got into the discussion.
"If the Senator from Missouri will permit the chair to make a brief statement," he interrupted.
"As a matter of fact, I had reference to an article which was read at the request of the Senator from New York (Copeland), and I did not have in mind at all the article which was read at the request of the Senator from Missouri."

Reed Surprised.
Indeed, in view of the proceedings as set out in the record, no other conviction on Dawes' remarks was possible. Reed was as much surprised by the Vice President's explanation as anybody else.
"Then, Mr. President," he replied,
"you have been very indifferently and improperly reported by all the newspapers, for I read in the press
this morning a statement which states that you have the Vice President's statement."

Senator Copeland sought to get the floor, but Reed, who went on with his statement. He read from Dawes' radio speech the observation made when such an important measure as the tax bill was before the Senate no Senator should be allowed to "read magazine articles and newspaper articles or something else irrelevant."

Reed said that this was practically an assertion that the tax bill was before the Senate and had been in-sulted by the reading of the article
he had sent to the desk.
Actually "Super-Critics," as he called them, said, "I do not allow to go unchallenged. The tax bill was not before the Senate until this morning. The tax bill was not held up one second by

REED SNAPS HIS FINGERS AND WILLIAMS RUNS TO HIS RESCUE IN COURT ATTACK

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The two Missouri Senators, both opponents of the World Court, gave an exhibition of teamwork today.
Senator Reed's voice, after several hours of speaking today
and yesterday was getting husky.
Relief was needed. Glancing at Senator Williams on the Republican side of the chamber, Reed vigorously snapped his fingers in his colleague's direction. This is the signal commonly used by Senators in summoning pages.

Williams walked across the chamber to Reed, who whispered in his ear. Returning to his place, Williams made the point of "no quorum." This au-tomatically produced a roll call of the Senate and gave Reed
several minutes of much needed rest.

The roll call having ended,
Reed arose in his place and resumed complacently:
"As I was saying when interrupted"

'MIRACLE' GUARANTORS ARE ASKED FOR $50,000

Packed Houses Come Too Late —Actual Deficit Put at $30,000.

With the engagement of "The Miracle" closing at the Coliseum next Saturday night, St. Louis guarantors of the production have been called on to advance half of the $100,000 guaranty fund.
The treasurer of the Guaranty Fund Committee, R. King Kauffman, said today, discussing the call for immediate cash, that St.
Louis was slow in becoming interested in this spectacle, but that lately the Coliseum had been packed at every performance. Another week of the production here, with attendance as heavy as it has been recently, would make the demand on the fund unnecessary, he added.

The entire $50,000 called for probably will not be required.
Kauffman said, but in making final settlements it will be necessary to have sufficient cash on hand.
Guarantors, however, think they will be fortunate if the deficit does not exceed $30,000. Refund will be made of whatever part of the guaranty fund is not required.

Best Accepted Out.
Morris Gest, New York producer, first demanded a local subsidy of $325,000, but accepted the smaller sum when members of the committee contended that his first estimate would not only guarantee him against loss, but assure him
a handsome profit.
St. Louis is the only city except Cleveland to grant a guarantee to the spectacle. It played in New York, Boston and Cincinnati simply as a commercial speculation. In Chicago also it will play without a guarantee.

In an effort to reduce possible losses, the committee has exercised a provision in the contract to extend the engagement by four extra performances. It was to have closed tonight, but performances will be given tomorrow, Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday afternoon.
The production goes from here to Chicago for six weeks at the Auditorium.

The expected deficit results from the fact that during the early part of the engagement the less expensive seats in the two galleries were but little used, though the costlier chairs in the parquet were well patronized. Also, a considerable part of the early attendance was from out of town while the city itself remained apathetic.

DURANT'S BUYING ORDERS SEND STOCK MARKET UPWARD

From Skidbed, He Causes Advances in Baldwin Locomotive and Other Shares.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—From his skidbed in the Post-Graduate Hospital, William C. Durant, motor manufacturer, turned the stock market upward this afternoon by distributing buying orders for shares of Baldwin Locomotive and other companies in which he is interested.

Execution of these orders started a rally which gained impetus from the covering operations of professional traders.
Baldwin closed at 126, after selling as low as 123 1/2, earlier in the day. U. S. Steel closed nearly two points higher at 134 1/2, and American Can, General Electric, Hudson Motors, U. S. Rubber, California Packing and Southern Railway showed net gains of 2 1/2 to nearly 4 points.

JUDGE RULES OUT DRUNKENNESS AS MURDER DEFENSE

Tells Jurors to Ignore Fact That Arthur Rose Had Been Drinking Before Girl Was Stabbed.

CASE GIVEN INTO HANDS OF JURY

Youth, in Face of Damaging Testimony, Denies Killing Alice Walters,
His Sweetheart.

The trial of Arthur Rose for the murder of his 18-year-old sweetheart, Miss Alice Walters, opened this afternoon, when at 3 o'clock the jury began deliberation. The jury was instructed as to first and second degree murder verdicts, and empowered to choose between a sentence ranging from 10 years in prison to the maximum punishment, death, or acquittal.
"It is immaterial in this case whether the defendant was drinking or intoxicated at the time of the homicide," Judge Landwehr told the jury. "Drunkenness neither excuses, palliates nor affects the crime."

Circuit Attorney Sidener in a 20-minute argument demanded the death penalty for Rose.
Pleads Lapse of Memory.
With a flat denial and a plea of lapse of memory while drunk, the young man is fighting a mass of damaging testimony. Two gravely damaged mothers watch the proceedings with painful interest,
one praying for the life of her only son, the other waiting and hoping for the punishment of the slayer of her only child.

"I didn't do it. I never thought of a thing like that," was Rose's nervous declaration at the end of a long session yesterday.

Witness after witness took the stand and each told much the same story. Four police officers asserted that Rose had frankly admitted the crime, and Miss Coral Lyman, the only eye-witness available, detailed a story of drinking in a county roadhouse, a petty quarrel between Rose and Miss Walters, and then two couples crowded in a Ford coupe where she said Rose stabbed his sweetheart with a pocketknife as she sat upon his lap, the night of April 4 last.

Mrs. Walters in Front Row.
Mrs. Anna Walters, the girl's mother, sat throughout the day in a front-row seat hanging on the words of each witness. Occasionally she cried a little and registered her head on a companion's shoulder.

The other mother, Mrs. Anna
Rose, waited in a witness room until late afternoon when she was called to testify.
Rose, a slender young man, of medium height, sat quietly in the defendant's chair nervously moving his hands and playing with the crease of a new brown felt hat.

His reddish-brown hair was brushed back smoothly and freshly cut. His brown eyes watched the witnesses as they passed before him and his body was motionless
most of the day except when he sighed occasionally. His face appeared drawn and pale from the night in jail. He was neatly dressed in a blue serge suit, tan shoes and white shirt.

When his mother was led into the trial room to testify, he covered his face with his hands as she passed close to him on her way to the witness chair. Her testimony was brief. Her son would be 25 years old next May 11. They lived in a three-room flat with her brother, Charlie, at 2218 A Knapp street.
Arthur had worked since he was 15 years old, towards the last in a battery repair shop at Grand and Ninth streets, and rarely got home from work before 9:30 p. m.

Wedding Set for June.

She had met Alice Walters twice,
she said, and had been looking for a larger flat so that Arthur could bring her home as his wife in June.
At this point Mrs. Walters sobbed heavily and was quieted by a friend.

Mrs. Rose told how her son brought Miss Walters home after the stabbing, placed her on his bed, and awakened his mother.

"Mama, Alice is hurt," he said.
"Take care of her."

"I got up and dressed," the mother related. "I found Alice on the bed. She had stopped bleeding.
Arthur said, 'Mama, what shall I do?' I told him to get out and look for a doctor. He kissed her and covered her up. She said, 'Arthur, don't take the blame.'"

"Oh!" exclaimed the other mother and sobbed again.

"I told him to get her mother," Mrs. Rose went on. Her voice

FLEXIBLE "GLASS" INVENTED, LONDON MAGAZINE CLAIMS

Substance Said to Be 50 Per Cent Lighter Than Ordinary Glass and Unsplinterable.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Politics Publishing Co., New York World
London, Jan. 20.—The invention of "flexible" glass by two Austrian scientists, whose names are not given, is announced here by the weekly automobile magazine, Motor.

The new substance is said to resemble glass in its appearance and properties, but is flexible, unsplinterable and non-inflammable. It is unaffected by temperature or light and is 50 per cent lighter than ordinary glass. Describing the discovery, the magazine says:
"Applied to motor car windows,
windcreens and side screen windows, the new material would have the transparency, whiteness and durability of glass, with a degree of flexibility that removes all danger from splinters or jagged fractures."

"It is an organic (non-mineral) substance. It is sufficiently hard to be safe from accidental scratching, yet flexible enough to bend
under stress to a marked extent without fracture. It can be broken with the bare hands without risk because the edges of the fracture are not sharp and jagged."
A given sheet of the new material has only half the weight of a sheet of glass of corresponding size and thickness. Sheets and rods of the organic glass can be bent between the hands to a sharp curve or dropped to the floor without damage.

WOMAN WITH HER DEAD SON CHANGES SHIPS IN MID-OCEAN

South American Mother Makes Transfer at Midnight to Take Coffin Home.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—A midnight transfer at sea of a mother and her dead son from the liner
Southern Cross to the liner Pan-America, caused the former ship to dock several hours late yesterday.
Marino de Conde, 9-year-old son of Mrs. Jana de Conde, died of heart disease while he and his mother were bound for New York from South America on the Southern Cross. Mrs. Conde insisted that she be landed or transferred to a ship which would take her back home to Rio de Janeiro.

Capt. J. F. Fels established wireless communication with the Pan-America. As the two ships drew near each other a boat was lowered from the Southern Cross.
The transfer took four hours. A toot of whistles and the liners vanished into the night.

CHARGE FEDERAL JUDGE FALSIFIED COURT RECORDS

Specifications of Senate Sub-Committee Against Anderson of Tennessee
Are Formally Filed.

INCOMPETENCY
ALSO ALLEGED

Affidavits From Residents of Memphis Relate Chiefly to Matters of Prohibition Enforcement.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Federal Judge Harry B. Anderson of the western district of Tennessee was charged with falsifying records in cases pending before him, in documents laid today before a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee.

The charges were in the form of specifications which the committee was asked to make a basis for investigation of Judge Anderson's acts. He was accused also of failing to administer punishment "in the manner, grade and degree required by law in the particular cases then pending for consideration and in failing to uphold the law and properly administer the law in cases pending before him."

Another charge was that the Judge "is without legal training and legally incompetent and morally incapable of properly discharging the duties of the high office" and that he was not a resident of the district when he took office.
Judge Anderson was given a response appointment last September and his confirmation is now contested.

After counsel for those opposing the nomination had announced they could not proceed until records of Judge Anderson's court had been brought from Memphis, the defense decided to go ahead with testimony on the question of residence.

George R. James of Memphis, a member of the Federal Reserve Board, the first witness, testified he attended a dinner at the Gridiron Club in Memphis in December, and that Judge Anderson, who sat near him, was "perfectly sober."
To Raise Drunkenness Charge.
It was explained by C. L. Sibley, chief counsel for Judge Anderson,
that, although no charge of drunk-ness was contained in the specifications, he understood one would be raised.

W. P. Metcalf, a Memphis lawyer, testified the jurist was a good lawyer, and that he knew of no citizen of Memphis "whose reputation for integrity and morality is better."

The charges are in the form of affidavits from residents of Memphis, and revolve largely around prohibition matters. Action on his nomination was held up at the request of C. H. Huston of Tennessee, formerly an assistant Secretary of Commerce.

Judge Anderson was present in person and was represented by four attorneys.

FORD BUYS OLD SCHOOLHOUSE

Little Red Cabin of 1801 to Be Set Near Wayside Inn.

By the Associated Press.
WINCHESTON, Mass., Jan. 20.—
The "Little Red School House"
on the Gardner-Winchendon road
here has been purchased by a representative of Henry Ford and will be added to the manufacturer's collection of early American buildings surrounding Wayside Inn at Sudbury.

Built in 1801 and still bearing much of the traditional coat of red paint, the school is believed to be one of the oldest left standing in New England.

The school's bench is close by the master's seat, and a frazzled bunch of witchazel switches still hang from its nail by a thong. The building has not been used for more than 50 years.

CARDINAL MERCIER SLOWLY SINKING

Belgian Prelate Still Retains Spirit to Do the Good That Won Him Fame.

By the Associated Press.
BRUSSELS, Jan. 20.—With life slowly ebbing and calmly awaiting the end, Cardinal Mercier still retains the spirit to do those things which gave him world-wide fame
when the Germans invaded Belgium and throughout the war.

The aged prelate is seeking to bring about a union of the Roman and Anglican churches, a task he has engaged in since the end of the war. Yesterday, despite the contrary desires of his physicians,
the Cardinal discussed during a goodly portion of the afternoon with Abbe Portal, a missionary priest of Paris, the prospects for the success of the union.

The Cardinal passed a relatively good night and his general condition this morning was unchanged.
The physicians and members of his entourage again expressed astonishment at the stout resistance
he gave prelate in offering to his illness and the cheerfulness with which he faces the grave crisis.

"I want to live three months, to see accomplished the work of reconciliation of the churches which has always been near my heart," he is said to have exclaimed just before his operation in December. Today he hoped again to confer on the subject with the churchmen of his archbishopric.

The whole country is moved by the desperate state of the man who so bravely championed the cause of the Belgian people during the German invasion. Even in the little countryside hamlets, the arrival of letters or newspapers is anxiously awaited in the hope of some word to indicate that he has a chance for recovery.

Throughout Belgium masses are being said frequently and prayers offered that he may be restored to health. The papal nuncio in Brussels sends to Rome every few hours
the latest reports from the attending physicians and most of the embassies and legations inquire twice or more daily for news.

CONFESSES KILLING
U. S. JUSTICE AGENT

Prisoner and Wife, Heavily Guarded, Taken on Afternoon Train to Chicago
—Had $2200 in Cash.

Martin J. Durkin, notorious criminal wanted in Chicago for the murders of a Department of Justice agent and a police sergeant, was captured today in the stateroom of a Frisco-Katy train upon arrival at Webster Groves from San Antonio, ending a diligent search of three months.

When the train halted at the Frisco Station in Webster Groves
at 11:05 a. m., Edward J. Dowd, a Department of Justice agent, and Detective Sergeant Leonard Ising,
a wrestler and expert in jiu-jitsu, in-agreement with an elaborate and prearranged plan, stepped to the stateroom which they knew to be occupied by Durkin and a young woman.

Dowd knocked on the stateroom door. It swung open and the nonchalant Durkin stood before them.
Clamps on Wristlock.

Ising sprang at the fugitive and clamped a wristlock on his right arm. Dowd seized him around the waist and both began to drag him from the stateroom.

"Durkin, we've got you," Dowd said. "We've got you at last."

"You've made a mistake. I'm Valentine," the gunman protested, trying to pull away.

"Valentine, hell," Dowd replied, shoving him into a seat. "I'd know you in a million, Durkin."

While the bear-like Ising held Durkin and mystified Pullman passengers crowded around, Dowd entered the stateroom. A girl (Dur-kin's bride, as later learned) was sitting there.

On a table nearby the agent saw a .44 caliber revolver, a .45 caliber automatic and a leather belt of cartridges.

"I would have shot it out with you if you had given me a chance," Durkin told his captors. "You got me too quick."

Admits Killing U. S. Agent.
With Durkin and his bride in custody, the train, which had stopped at Webster Groves by pre-arranged plan, continued to Union Station, where the prisoners were taken to Police Headquarters in an automobile. There Durkin admitted his identity and made a detailed statement, admitting the killing of the Department of Justice agent, but refusing to admit he killed the police sergeant.

Four hours later Durkin, manacled and heavily guarded, and his bride were on their way by train to Chicago. The guard was instructed to take no chances.

Durkin is charged with the murder of Edward C. Shanahan, Department of Justice operative, who was shot to death, Oct. 11 last, when he attempted to arrest Durkin for automobile theft, and Police Sergeant Harry Gray who was fatally wounded, Oct. 29, when he tapped Durkin in a house only to have Durkin shoot his way out.
Lloyd Austin, a civilian, was killed in the exchange of bullets that followed.

Three traps were arranged in and around St. Louis, one at the Frisco Railroad station at Webster Groves. There H. L. Scott, James
J. McLaughlin and Edward J.
Dowd of the Department of Justice, and 15 city detectives, all crack shots, took up positions.

As the train pulled in, four detectives stood on either side, and the others boarded the coaches.
They had been warned in police circulars that Durkin was "very dankers, quick to draw," and they were careful to take no unnecessary chances.

Trained From End St. Louis.
A good-looking fellow, varietally called the "shish robber" and
"Prince Charming," Durkin continued to smile even after his arrest.

REED AND DAWES CLASH AS FORMER ATTACKS COURT

The reading of that article, or one second by anything I have said or done. It would be well for the super-critics of this country to know a little about what they are talking about before they fling stones at a man, a habit which seems to have become fastened upon some of them.

If the tax bill was being held up, Reed continued, it was because the proponents of the World Court insisted that the "league debate" be taken up. He said that he would be glad to give the floor at that moment for a motion by the chairman of the Finance Committee to take up the tax bill for consideration.

"I pause for a reply," went on Reed dramatically. "No reply having been made, I charge that the responsibility for the delaying of the tax bill is upon those who will jeopardize the passage of the great measure in time to relieve the people. It is not upon those of us who say that we have done without a league court ever since Adam was a boy, and that he could still further postpone entering this foreign court without doing any great violence to the nation's future."

Copeland Replies.
Copeland finally succeeded in getting the floor to answer the Vice President. He began by quoting Dawes' statement that it was he (Copeland) and not Reed that the Vice President referred to last night. Copeland recalled that Dawes had made a speech in New York in which he held the Senate up to ridicule and sought "to undermine the influence and usefulness of this body."

Copeland then denied explicitly that he had had an article read into the Senate yesterday. "I sent to the desk," he said, "certain articles which are printed in the record, but which I did not read. I have no disposition to enter into any debate, either with the Vice President of the United States or anybody else, as to my right and duty as a Senator, but I resent the inaccurate statement of the Vice President made this morning in reply to the Senator from Missouri."

That ended the flurry, and Reed went on with his attack on the court.

Later in the day the general confusion of mind over Dawes' remarks of last night and today was heightened by the issuance of the following statement by the Vice President:

"I, one Senator Copeland, an apology. He has not attempted to obstruct the progress of the Senate in the World Court debate.

"My references in my short extemporaneous speech made last night over the radio were to certain kinds of tactics used at times during the World Court debate and not to yesterday's proceedings alone. The newspaper reports of it must have been suggested by the written introductory speech of Gen. James G. Harbord, referring specifically to yesterday's proceedings.

Reed said the court's supporters by holding that the tribunal "did not assume jurisdiction over a dispute without the consent of the nations involved, had confessed that it could not prevent a war."

Unification of the vote of France and England and their associates along with many of the minor countries of the league constitutes a decisive control of authority of the league, he held.

Dividing the vote on the basis of the Senate placed nearly four times as great a population in the hands of white people than in those of colored people. He held the figures as white, 22,102,000; colored, 3,943,000.

"The religion of the various nations," he declared, "has been a factor in the 'gamut from Buddhism to Christianity,'" he said, and one of them "practices cannibalism," he declared. "Many of them reject our God and our civilization."

Reed argued that the systems of law, Hindu law, Mohammedan law, and others, would become a basis for decisions by the court, and that this would take the Mohammedan law to the level of Mohammedan law.

"I denounce it," he shouted. "There is only one word to describe it. I have too much respect for the Senate to utter that word. Let the American people brand that word on the brows of those who would surrender the independence of the United States."

EIGHT MEN HELD UP IN CAFE; TWO ARRESTS FOLLOW

Prisoners Believed to Be Members of Italian Robbery and Blackmail Band.

With identification of two young Italians as robbers, Chief of Detectives Kaiser today said he believed the Police Department had struck a telling blow at a band of Italians who have been holding up chiefly their fellow countrymen here, and then collecting blackmail money from victims who would avoid future robberies.

William V. Rutstein, proprietor of the Hollywood Cafe, 3338 Locust boulevard, reported last night that he and seven customers had been held up Monday night in the cafe by three youths, two of whom were among the robbers who visited him on two previous occasions recently.

Rutstein had $200 at the time, including four $50 bills, and he dropped his money in a wastebasket, but one bandit fished it out and took it.

Seven Customers Robbed.
The customers and Rutstein were marched to a back room and searched. Detectives who saw the customers were told the names were as follows: Herman Cohn, $200; Charles Miller, $32; Samuel Rutstein, $12; Emil Conrath, $20; Willam Parry, $25; Isadore Sanders, $2; Benjamin Aifend, the seventh, lost nothing. Addresses of the customers are being withheld.

Rutstein complained to the robbers during the search. "Why don't you pick on somebody else?" he asked. One of them replied, "Give us $200 a month and we'll see that nobody robs you." Rutstein refused.

Two Men Arrested.
Declaring he was "fighting mad" and ready to identify the robbers, Rutstein told the police that two of them were Benjamin Ciamanco and Peter Licovoli. Ciamanco, he said, was the one who suggested the payment to avert robbery. These two men were arrested last night in the vicinity of Sixth street and Lucas avenue, and Chief Kaiser announced today that he had a police record of 21 arrests for investigation, is out on $5000 bond under a pending charge of rape and has been fined once each on charges of carrying a concealed weapon, larceny and vagrancy, and who is 23 and resides at 1909 Beacon street. He has been arrested eight times for injury.

rest. It was noticed that he had shaved his tiny mustache since leaving Chicago.

The attractive young woman with Durkin in the stateroom has been his bride since Dec. 4. They were married in East St. Louis. She said she was Miss Irma Sullivan, 21 years old, of Cornell, Ill.

In applying for the license he gave his name as James Durkin of St. Louis.

The capture of Durkin, who had several times escaped arrest in Chicago, was accomplished neatly. Durkin and his bride had been trailed from East St. Louis to Los Angeles and then to San Antonio, where they abandoned an automobile yesterday and engaged a stateroom on the train to St. Louis, intending to obtain employment here.

At Police Headquarters Durkin was closely questioned by his captives and by Chief of Police Gerk and Chief of Detectives Kaiser.

Asked if he would return to Chicago voluntarily or would fight extradition, Durkin replied:

"Well, I know you're going to take me back and I know you have to get the papers or get a waiver from me. I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll sign a waiver if you'll release my wife. She had nothing to do with all this stuff."

"No," snarled Scott and Kaiser, unanimously. "She's going back, too," Scott added.

"Well, I'd like to see her loose. She had nothing to do with it," declared Durkin.

Then, seeing no chance of gaining his point, Durkin asked for "the papers." He signed a waiver for return to Chicago.

In his confession, as retold by Chief of Detectives Kaiser, Durkin readily admitted the murder of Shanahan and described the fight with detectives in which Lloyd Austin and Police Sergeant Jack were killed. He would not admit he fired the shots which killed Austin and Gray.

"Oh, these fellows were shooting at each other half the time," he said in the vain, superior manner he adopted through his recital.

An air of bravado pervaded his confession. He spoke rapidly and refused to be interrupted by questions regarding details. Chief Kaiser said:

"I went to the garage (in Chicago) the evening of Oct. 11 to drive my car out to put in a couple of new spark plugs in the car. I saw a man coming into a Government detective. I thought perhaps he was the owner of the machine. I was just about to drive out when this fellow pulled a revolver and said, 'Put 'em up.'"

Tells of Shooting.
"I thought it was a sickup. I had about $2000 on me, so I started talking to him while I reached in the side pocket of the machine and got my revolver. Just as I drew it out he let me have it. The bullets went through my clothes. Then I shot him. He fell at the first shot, and fired twice at me after he was down. I figured he was done for, so I drove up a couple blocks, got out and walked to the home of a man I know."

"I had a girl friend in Chicago who had a little boy. After Shanahan was shot, they pinched her. I went back to try to get her out of trouble and I gave a stool pigeon some money to help me fix it up. He was a fine stool pigeon. He led me to her house to get some clothes for the girl and when I got to the top of the stairs, the first thing I saw was a roomful of detectives."

"Opened Fire on Him."
"They opened fire on me and I ran down into the yard. I was shot in the arm, and sort of dazed. I tripped over a clothesline and fell down. Then I pulled my revolver and fired two shots back at them. They were shooting from windows. I had three bullets left, but I kept them because I thought maybe I would need one for my self. I got up and managed to run away before they had nerve enough to chase me."

Durkin related that he went to New York and in all returned to Chicago four times. He stole automobiles in New York, Berlin and Chicago in order to make the money to travel. He was finally in a Cadillac, drove to Cornell, where he got Miss Sullivan and drove to East St. Louis.

"We stayed there about 10 days at the Arnold Hotel, while I waited for my automobile license. He continued, "Then we drove to Kansas City, spent a couple of days there and moved on to Los Angeles. I abandoned the machine there and stole a Cadillac phaeton. He laughed proudly when he told of that theft.

"I went to the Cadillac dealer and looked over the machine," he said. "They showed me a phaeton and a sedan. I figured the sedan was too good for me, and decided to take the phaeton. I did."

He walked in there at 20 minutes after six, stepped into the machine, and drove right out. They just started like a bunch of rubes. Then I drove to San Antonio where I ditched the phaeton because the wheel was broken."

St. Louis a "Damned Town."
"Well, you know I had place to come to this time," Police Chief Gerk remarked.

Durkin nodded. "This is what I get for coming to your damn town," he said.

After talking with Durkin for two hours and after the Chief of Detectives Kaiser, who explained that apparently he was mistaken as Enright formerly was, Durkin admitted it was his mistake.

Ising had been keeping a careful guard on Durkin while the Bertillon experts were getting his measurements and the prisoner turned to him with the command: "Don't hold me so tight. You're doing a lot of extra work. Do you get paid for it?" However, the detective didn't relinquish his grasp on the prisoner's belt.

It was nine minutes to three when Inspector Dowd decided to catch the 3 o'clock train for Chicago. At that time he was in the Bertillon room at headquarters with Durkin, when a detective informed him a train would leave at 3. Dowd made a quick decision and two minutes later Durkin, Mrs. Durkin, and Chief of Detectives Kaiser, Lieut. Fred Egenbreiter and Sgt. Ising were in an automobile bound for Union Station.

Five minutes later the party was in a stateroom on the Chicago train, and Durkin's confession was in a stenographer's typewriter at headquarters, half finished. It will be mailed to Chicago tonight.

and reporters, Durkin turned to Ising, who was holding his wrist as he was being weighed in the Bertillon room, and said: "Let go, your weight doesn't count."

His picture was taken next and then Detective Sergeant Beccard started taking his finger-print measurement. "What's the big idea of so many?" Durkin asked after three prints had been taken. "Oh, well, you're just popular," Beccard replied.

"I may be popular, but it's tiresome as hell," he answered.

Police Commissioner Freund, in company with Chief Kaiser, arrived as the prints were taken. He was introduced to the slayer, who put his right hand forward and then drew it back with the apology, "I'm sorry I can't shake hands with you, but my hands are full of ink."

"That's all right; they should have been full of ink long ago," retorted the Commissioner.

"That may be true, too," admitted the prisoner.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 20.—The Mayor's office yesterday, was attended by the Mayor, Counselor, Deputy Controller, aldermanic president and members of the Board of Public Service and by three representatives of the Public Service Co., J. K. Newman, Stanley Clarke and Sam Greenland.

Charge gave the city officials copies of a booklet on the subject of "Service at Cost." The company's representatives gave it to be understood that a definite proposal was desired from the city by Feb. 15, as final action in Federal court toward the ending of the receivership is expected at that time.

Judge Faris has told the reorganization committee that he wishes to have foreclosure and sale decrees prepared by Feb. 15. It is anticipated that the form of these decrees will be prepared in advance, and submitted to the court on that day.

NO DECISION AS TO VOTE.

The Mayor, who said Saturday that the franchise proposal would be submitted to the public for an initiative or referendum vote, was not ready to say after yesterday's meeting what would be done as to a popular vote. It is believed that the reorganizers prefer to have an ordinance enacted by the Board of Aldermen, and voted on, if necessary, under a referendum proceeding. The alternative would be for the ordinance to be proposed by initiative, petition, and either adopted without amendment by the Aldermen and Mayor, or submitted to public vote.

DENIES KNOWING ANYTHING ABOUT AUTO USED IN HOLDUP

William Cronin Answers Purported Statement of Former County Judge J. W. Shields.

William Cronin, an associate of Cuckoo gangsters, today denied having had any conversation with J. William Shields, a former Judge of the St. Louis County Court, about Shields' automobile, which has figured in the investigation of the recent robbery of the Bank of Ferguson.

Shields, who had been arrested and released in the inquiry, believed the robbers escaped in an automobile bearing a license issued to him, had been quoted by county authorities as saying that Cronin was working at a garage where his car was being repaired at the time of the robbery. Announcement of this purported statement was published in yesterday's Post-Dispatch.

Cronin declared he did not know Shields and had not worked at the garage. Shields declared today that he had not mentioned Cronin in his statement to the authorities.

CLUBHOUSE WASN'T ROBBED

Members of Triple A Golf Club who went to the clubhouse in Forest Park today to check up on their golf paraphernalia after a burglary Monday night, were agreeably surprised when told by club officials that the police report in some respects was erroneous.

Burglars had not smashed through double-locked doors of the clubhouse, as reported, but instead had forced entrance to the caddy house, several yards away. They carried away a heavy safe and about $70 worth of golf equipment, offered for sale by Edward Richter, professional at the club. The safe, unopened, was found later on a lot at Taylor and Duncan avenues.

Mayor Heads Committee Which Will Hold Its First Meeting Next Friday Afternoon.

BODY COMPOSED OF SIXTEEN MEMBERS

Definite Proposal Desired by U. R. Reorganizers by Feb. 15 When Receivership Is Expected to End.

A group of city officials, designated by Mayor Miller to draft a franchise ordinance for the St. Louis Public Service Co., which plans to take over the United Railways property on the termination of the receivership, will hold its first meeting Friday at 2 p. m. The meeting will not be open to the public, but its conclusions will be made public, the Mayor's office announced after a preliminary conference yesterday.

The committee to draft the ordinance is composed of the Mayor, Comptroller, City Counselor, President of the Board of Aldermen, members of the Board of Public Service and members of the Public Utilities Committee of the Board of Aldermen. This makes a membership of 16.

JUDGE RULES OUT DRUNKENNESS AS MURDER EXCUSE

trilled off. "Her mother came there," she said.

"Would you know her mother?" Circuit Attorney Sidener asked in cross-examination. "I think I would," was the reply.

"Stand up Mrs. Walters," from Sidener. "Was it her daughter?" he asked, pointing.

"Yes, I think it was; I only saw her mother once."

Mrs. Rose testified that her son had three pocket knives which were kept in a dresser drawer. Was it possible that he might have another? "No," she said, nor would she admit it was possible.

Stops to Kiss Her Son.

As she passed from the witness stand, she stepped suddenly to her son and kissed him on the mouth, as she did at the beginning when the jury was called. He squeezed her hand and whispered something. A Deputy led her a seat in the front row near Mrs. Walters. Rose was called to the stand.

He rose with a snap, tossed his hat on the chair and almost ran to the witness box. "Tell what you know about the night of April 4," his attorney commanded, and Rose, after catching his voice, began a long recital. Obviously he had rehearsed parts of it many times as he waited for trial. He spoke in a low voice, which was constantly passed a nervous hand over his face. Frequently he was told to speak louder.

"I left the shop about 9:30 o'clock that night," he related, "and went to call for Alice at her home, 234 Ashland avenue. She was waiting at the door for me. I finished dressing there because I was in a hurry to leave the shop. I was very tired, and fell asleep twice while I was waiting for her to get ready. Alice gave me some wine to make me feel a little better."

"We went to the Palm Cafe at St. Louis and Vandeventer avenues, where we met Jack Grewe and Coral Lyman. Neither of us had ever seen Miss Lyman before. (John C. Grewe, wanted as a State's witness, left the city last June. Deputy Sheriff reported.) We danced a couple of dances there and Grewe suggested we go to a roadhouse in the county. I was tired and didn't want to go, but I couldn't very well get out of it."

"We got into Grewe's Ford coupe and drove to the Venetian Gardens on Olive Street road. Grewe went out and got some gin and whiskey. We sat down in a booth and had several drinks."

Girl Said He Was Drunk.

"I asked Alice to dance. She said, 'No, Art, you're drunk.' I took offense at that and thought I was insulted. I said, 'Alice, I'm tired, and you know it.'"

They patched up their disagreement, he went on, and danced together. He suggested a waltz and Miss Walters asked the orchestra to play "Honest and Truly." They traded partners, and when the waltz was played, Rose and Miss Walters danced together.

"It's very hard for me to remember all the occurrences," Rose said. "I was helping Alice on with her coat at a looking glass when she said, 'Wait until I get you home. If you hadn't danced with that little runt everything would have been all right.' Alice didn't like Miss Lyman."

"We got in the machine. I was pretty full. The machine started with a jerk and Alice came back against me like that. (He raised his hands and jerked back in his chair.) That's the last thing I remember in the machine."

"I didn't know Alice was hurt until we were in front of Art Steinhoecker's saloon at Cottage and Prairie avenues. I never will forget, I said, 'Look, she's bleeding.'"

"Grewe and Miss Lyman were pushing me from the machine and saying, 'Why you stuck Alice with a knife.' We carried Alice into the saloon. Grewe took her feet and I took her shoulders. We sat her on a chair but Alice could not sit up. Then we laid her on the floor."

Phoned to Girl's Mother.

"Did you send for a doctor?" Rose's attorney interposed. The

TWO CONVICTED IN GROGAN CASE TO TESTIFY FOR WOOD

Counsel Refuses to State What Bird and Sproul Will Say at Trial, Now in Progress.

Frank Bird and Leo Sproul, both under sentence of life imprisonment for the murder of Patrolman John H. Grogan, will be called as witnesses in behalf of Medford Wood, 31 years old, now on trial in Judge Frey's court for the same crime. This was announced by Wood's lawyers, before testimony in the case began today.

When asked what the two youths would testify, the lawyers said, "We expect them to tell the truth."

To testify that Wood did not take part in the robbery of the Collins printing office, 1531 Washington avenue, and the murder of Grogan and of Harvey Hammert, which followed the robbery July 3 last, Bird and Sproul apparently would have to admit their part in the robbery.

No serious denial of the guilt of either was made in their trials. Bird's defense was temporary insanity and Sproul's lawyer pleaded in his behalf that he was unlearned and advised his companions to surrender rather than to "shoot their way out." Since his conviction Bird has waived the right of appeal and has consented to go to the penitentiary. Immediately the Circuit Attorney has dismissed the murder charge against him in the Hammert case.

The Circuit Attorney offered to accept pleas of guilty from Wood and James Widmer, if they would accept the sentences, but Wood refused to go to trial. The prosecution will ask for the death penalty, as was done in the Bird and Sproul cases. Maurice O'Flaherty, an admitted participant in the robbery, is expected to testify against Wood and Widmer, as he said against Bird and Sproul. Two other youths are under indictment for the murder, but are out on bond and no evidence against them appeared in the two trials held this far.

University Student Robbed of $150.

Harold Barnett, 19 years old, who gave his residence as the Delmonte Hotel, and said he was a student at Washington University, was found by police early today with his clothes torn and in a dazed condition, in front of 5462 North Market street. Barnett said he had been robbed of nearly $150. He told police that he had carried a check for that amount in the morning, and that last night he went out with a friend. He said they were on their way home about midnight, when they were attacked by several men, after which he remembered nothing until he was found by police.

Lady Astor's Son Hurt in Race.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Robert G. Shaw, son of Lady Astor by her first marriage, was injured today when his horse fell at a water jump in a steeplechase race at Plumpton. Lady Astor was among the first to reach her son's side and knelt by him until an ambulance arrived. His injuries are not believed to be serious.

after he removed it from her in his home, and denied he ever admitted the killing to police or anyone else.

"I never thought of such a thing," he repeated. "I don't see how I could have done it."

The defense rested at noon and Sidener offered his first rebuttal witness, Edwin Straube, the defendant's last employer, who talked to the prisoner on April 5.

"I asked him, 'What did you do, Art?' Straube testified, and he replied, 'I don't know. I did it. Give me the rope. I want to get over with this thing as quickly as possible.' Two detectives, who were with Straube, corroborated his statement, and he was then summoned the mother of Alice Walters to the stand.

Mrs. Walters denied her daughter had been engaged to Rose and declared she had told him to "stay away." She told of Rose's early morning telephone call and described how she sat up waiting until 4:30 a. m., when the young man appeared in a taxicab.

"I asked him, 'Where's Alice?'" she testified. "He said, 'She is over at my house; she had an accident. Wait until you get there.' We went over and I found her on the bed."

"What is the matter?" I said to him. My little girl in this condition, and no doctor? He walked out of the room."

Sidener rested at that point as Mrs. Walters left the stand apparently on the verge of collapse. Court was adjourned until 1:30 o'clock, when instructions and argument began.

BEGGARS ORDERED TO LEAVE CITY OR GO TO WORKHOUSE

Pass Up St. Louis Next Time, Judge Rosencan Warns "Gandy Dancers" in Police Court.

A flock of "gandy dancers" had their day in Police Judge Rosencan's court yesterday and were given "floaters." "Gandy dancer" is the general term for a railroad laborer, the calling espoused by most of those arrested for begging and a "floater" is an order to leave town by 6 o'clock or take a workhouse sentence.

Some of the defendants admitted "putting the bee" on passers-by, or "mooning," and the majority, it developed, were "on de-rail," meaning that they were under the influence of alcohol or "canned heat." Two were charged with operating in partnership, the senior member of the firm doing most of the work.

"Pass up St. Louis the next time," was Judge Rosencan's warning to the defendants. "We are tough on street begging here by drifters and your second appearance here will mean a workhouse sentence. Now let's see how fast you can get to the Free Bridge."

JOURNEMEN TAILORS OBJECT TO INCREASED WORKING HOURS

Members of Union No. 280 Leave Their Jobs to Attend Demonstration.

Three hundred members of Journeymen Tailors' Union No. 280 left their work at noon today to attend a "demonstration meeting" at 2 p. m. at their headquarters in Fraternal Hall, Seventh street and Franklin avenue, to protest against longer working hours and changed working conditions alleged to have been adopted recently by some employers.

Oscar Chorlinsky, business agent of the union, said a vote would be taken at this afternoon's meeting to determine when the union will strike several months ago for a 44-hour week and other changes in working conditions, but returned to work shortly afterward after arranging terms individually with their employers.

Members of the Journeymen Tailors' Local No. 11, a separate organization from No. 280, went on strike several months ago for a 44-hour week and other changes in working conditions, but returned to work shortly afterward after arranging terms individually with their employers.

TWO PARTNERS PLENTY SO THIRD ONE LEAVES

Status Quo and Peace and Industry Restored at Garment Factory.

Now that three partners have been reduced to two at the Majestic Garment Co., five flights up from 714 Washington avenue, peace and prosperity reign and the song of the sewing machine is heard once more.

Business was good up to July 15 last, when Fred Fagan, salesman extraordinary, cast a covetous eye on the whirling machines and asked to be admitted into the firm. And Nathan Soule and Harry Ponfili, who founded the firm two years ago and have walked the floor with it at nights, figuratively speaking, took counsel with themselves and said yes.

Of the $15,000 capital stock, $12,000 was issued, $4500 to Fagan and Ponfili and $3000 to Fagan. President Soule and Secretary Ponfili were to look after the factory, and Vice President Fagan was to load them with orders.

Kept Office's Hours.

Fagan acted the part of a vice president, his former associates recalled again and asked Fagan to work at 9 o'clock in the morning, and leaving, sometimes, at 4 in the afternoon to play golf. Soule and Ponfili do not approve of afternoon golf.

"He wasn't supposed to be a boss, but he acted just like one," said Soule. "Why, he used to walk up to a worker and say, 'You might as well quit now; you won't get paid, anyway.' And once he walked right into the factory and shut off the electricity for the machines. What right did he have to do that?"

Moreover, Fagan was always saying he could not see why he should be getting only $30 a week salary, when his partners were paying themselves $47.50.

So Soule and Ponfili, who were not overworked with orders, took counsel again and asked Fagan to take $2500 for his 20 shares and resign. But Fagan said no.

Next, Soule was presented with a subpoena to present himself in court. Fagan has sued for a re-employment. He made a lot of allegations, and his partner's stories about the partners and their stories. Joy fled from the fifth floor and the sewing machines were said to hear.

Willings to Sell Out.

The case was to be tried before Circuit Judge Ittner Monday. Fagan came to the fifth floor of 714 Washington, bubbling over with friendship and eloquence. "Let's be friends, again," said he.

So Fagan accepted the partners' $2500, turned over his stock, and the suit was dismissed by stipulation. Soule and Ponfili took back the 20 shares and presented them to Mrs. Soule and Mrs. Ponfili. Soule and Ponfili are glad Fagan is gone, and Fagan is glad he is free of the lure of the sewing machines.

A friend, yes, but a partner, no!

STORY OF THREE MONTHS' SEARCH FOR THE SLAYER

Durkin Was Trailed by Department of Justice From East St. Louis to California, to Texas and to St. Louis.

How the Department of Justice conducted its intensive and successful three months' manhunt for Martin Durkin, spurred on by the fact that he was the fugitive slayer of one of their own associates, was related at Police Headquarters this afternoon by one of the pursuers, while the prisoner was making a statement of his criminal activities. Department regulations forbid publication of the agent's name.

After Durkin's flight from Chicago, where twice he shot his way out of arrest, killing Department of Justice Agent Shanahan and Police Sergeant Harry Gray, the Department of Justice instructed its agents throughout the nation to watch for a clew that might furnish a foothold to investigators specially assigned to the search.

Clew From East St. Louis.

The first clew came to the St. Louis office in the form of a tip that a man resembling Durkin had been seen at the automobile license office in East St. Louis. That was on Dec. 15. Agents hurried to the office with photographs of the debonair killer.

They were identified by attaches of the office as pictures of the man who had called several times early in December for license plates for a new Cadillac automobile. Records showed that he had first appeared at the office on Dec. 8 with a young woman who herself applied for the license under the name of Irma Conley.

Durkin himself got the plates on Dec. 12, office attaches said. The number assigned the car was L. 101,244. But by the time those facts had been obtained Durkin had left East St. Louis with his companion and had got a three-day start westward. It was disclosed in a canvass of garages.

No Definite Trail.

There was no definite trail to follow and local operatives had to be content to broadcast a description of the cadillac and a guess that Durkin probably would be seen next in a Pacific Coast city.

On Dec. 31 watchful agents in Los Angeles found that Durkin had been there and had got a non-real estate license for the Cadillac, as the California law requires. He again the pursuers were a day or two behind Durkin was gone once more.

This time agents learned he had started eastward to San Antonio, Tex., and a telegram was sent there to begin a close search for Durkin. His Cadillac was found abandoned in San Antonio yesterday just as agents learned he had boarded M-K-T train No. 2 for St. Louis.

Plan of Capture Laid.

Again the well-oiled Department of Justice organization functioned. A wire was dispatched to St. Louis with the news, and agents James McLaughlin, H. L. Scott and Edward J. Dowd hurriedly worked out a plan of capture.

M-K-T officials were asked to stop the train at the Webster Groves station of the Frisco, so that Durkin might be taken off before he had a chance to get to the crowded Union Station in the city. Chief of Detectives Kaiser was asked for help and assigned 12 of the city's best detectives to the Bureau to meet the train.

Information from San Antonio agents had been that Durkin was in the station on the third car from the engine. As the train slid into the Webster station, Agent Dowd of the Department of Justice swung on this car with Detective Sergeant Ising beside him, while other agents and detectives boarded other cars, and some remained outside, forming an armed guard around the train.

Details of the capture of Durkin on the train are told elsewhere in this edition.

WIFE DENIES KNOWING DURKIN WAS WANTED

She Tells of Meeting Him On Chicago Beach Two Years Ago.

A stylishly dressed young woman, attractive, with a marcelled blond bob, Mrs. Durkin sat in a chair in Chief of Detective Kaiser's office and was questioned. Apparently a timid, refined young woman, she wore a long pink coat, evidently expensive, a silk dress, and light tan shoes.

"I met him on the beach in Chicago about two years ago when I was there," she related. "I knew him a short time there, but I did not see him for some time, until he drove up to my home in Cornell, Ill., on Dec. 3. He brought me this cloak as a present. He proposed marriage and I accepted."

"We left that night, drove to East St. Louis and were married under the name of 'Durkin.' That was the name I always knew him by."

"Didn't you know he was hunted by the police?" she was asked. "No, I had no idea anything was wrong until the other day, when we were driving to St. Antonio and he abandoned the automobile down there. Then I began to think maybe something was wrong. I had no chance to ask him about it before we were arrested. I was as much surprised as anybody."

Mrs. Durkin refused to divulge any information about her family. Inquiry at the married license office in East St. Louis disclosed that a license was issued there, Dec. 4, to James Durkin of St. Louis and Miss Irma Sullivan of Cornell, Ill. "Durkin" gave his age as 24 and Miss Sullivan gave hers as 21.

The records show they were married on the same day by Justice of the Peace John J. Driscoll, whose office is directly across the street from the East St. Louis Police Station.

Girl Was High School Prior to Her Marriage.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CORNELL, Ill., Jan. 20.—Irma Sullivan Durkin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Sullivan of Cornell, and was a student at the local high school prior to her marriage to Martin Durkin. Her father is the blacksmith in this village of 600 persons, 100 miles from Chicago.

The girl left home one night early last December, telling her parents that she was going to attend a basketball game at the high school. She failed to return and on Dec. 5 her parents received a telegram, sent from St. Louis, stating that she had been married to "Bert Con

SURGEON'S EDGELESS KNIFE ON DISPLAY

Electric Machine That Burns Incision Shown at Exhibition Here.

An edgeless operating knife for surgeons, which cuts by means of electricity and leaves a wound which does not bleed, is one of the newer surgical inventions on view at the First Annual Mississippi Valley Physiotherapy Show. The show is being held the first five days of this week at the Coronado Hotel.

The laboratories of the Engeln Electric Co. of Cleveland, O., are responsible for the knife, although their representative said that two other companies were producing apparatus similar to it. It has been in use in one of the clinics for Johns Hopkins University for two years. It finds its greatest application in cancer operations, and in surgical cases where a flow of blood might lead to infection.

The machine uses ordinary alternating current of 120 oscillations a second, which, by means of a circuit resembling that of the earlier radio transmitters, and consisting of transformer, spark gap, condensers and resonator, it converts into a current of 2,000,000 oscillations a second. One end of the circuit is grounded in the patient, by means of a metal plate. The other end enters through the "knife"—a delicate tongue of special alloy about an inch long and an eighth of an inch wide. The patient, according to the Engeln experts, feels besides the sensation of cutting, only a slight warmth. There are no muscle contractions, since the current is of too great a frequency to affect the nerve endings. The current corresponds to a radio-frequency wave length of about 200 meters.

The "cut" is accomplished by burning away electrically the cells in the very narrow path of the knife. No symptoms of burn appear, however, since the lymphatic fluids in surrounding cells flow into the "cut" and prevent further cell destruction. The heat of the electric current sears and closes the small capillary endings, as they are cut, thus preventing blood-flow. Larger blood vessels across the path of the cut are ligatured beforehand, as in ordinary surgery.

He Admits Belonging to "Committee of 48," But Denies It Was Communistic.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 20.—An Ohio State University professor today admitted to the trustees' investigating committee that he had at one time belonged to "The Committee of 48," an organization led by Dr. Clarence M. Hopley, Bayreuth, to be Communist.

Another professor characterized Dr. Maris as "mentally irresponsible and untrustworthy."

"It is true that I joined the 'Committee of 48,'" Dr. Albert L. Chandler, department of philosophy, said, "but the program at the time was vague but it seemed to be an effort to revive the Progressive party, formerly led by Roosevelt."

Terms Accusations "Vague."

The accusations directed against various members of the faculty at Ohio State University were made in a vague, such terms as Communist and parlor reds are used without meaning. They are terms of abuse applied by extreme conservatives to anyone they suspect of not being extremely conservative.

"I resent the idea that professors must subscribe to some particular political, economical or religious creed. The question to ask about a professor is 'Does he study? Does he subject thoroughly? Is he intelligent, open-minded? Does he cultivate these qualities in his students?' If he does, no one should worry about his opinions or those of his students. In particular, such a professor is likely to induce the present government of Russia to lead his student to do so."

Calls Accuser Irresponsible.

Carl Wittke, professor of American history, and J. A. Leighton, professor of philosophy, both of the investigators that the Committee of 48 was not communistic, but that they had never concerned themselves with it.

It was Prof. Leighton who characterized Dr. Maris as mentally irresponsible and untrustworthy. Four professors who had been accused of being communists denigrated the committee yesterday that they ever had any connection with communism or the slightest leading toward socialism. The four of the professors, who developed overseas with the A. E. and the other did various kinds of service in several parts of the country. The professors were G. C. North, sociology; Spencer and F. W. Coker, political science department; George Arpa, dean of the education college.

According to the testimony the four professors, their sole duty was to fill out questionnaires sent them through mail in 1920, asking if they were interested in literature pertaining to the formation of a third political party. Prof. North said that the literature came from the Committee of Forty-eight. All the professors said that as soon as the questionable nature of the literature became evident they committed it to the waste basket; they never joined any organizations, resulting from or connected with the Committee of Forty-eight.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 20.—One Ohio State University professor today admitted to the trustees' investigating committee that he had at one time belonged to "The Committee of 48," an organization alleged by Dr. Clarence Maris of Columbus and Senator James R. Hopley, Bucyrus, to be Communistic.

RHEUMATISM AND NEURITIS GIVEN
AMAZING RELIEF

Everyone who has suffered with rheumatism or neuritis knows what real pain is.
And when they get relief from pain they want to give the benefit of their experience to other sufferers.
Here is a letter from a man in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., who tried numerous remedies without relief, and then got genuine help from a simple home treatment.

"I had neuritis in my arm and shoulder, and the treatments I took did me no good. A friend told me to try Sloan's Liniment, and in less than ten applications my affliction was gone."
What is the magic of this amazingly effective remedy? Sloan's sends an increased supply of healing, germ-destrating blood right to the spot that hurts. That's what conquers the pain. No need to rub. Sloan's does the whole job. Just pat it on. Quickly and surely it kills pain, reduces swelling and inflammation, drives out stiffness and pain. Get a bottle today and have it on hand. ## Women's Frocks for Spring

The new mode expressed in these first arrivals is distinguished by a refreshing animation in line, achieved in the flare and circular skirt below a semi-fitted bodice. The suggested waistline is evident in the design of these first Spring Frocks and produces a new and popular contour for the season of 1926. The various ways in which this new silhouette is portrayed and the trimness it maintains assure its adaptability to service wear.

Vivid and Pastel Colors
Show Delightful Variety

Solid colors and prints—in crepe de chine—are as lovely as blossom tints and as alluring. They are self-trimmed or embroidered in contrasting colors to elaborate or tailored smartness. The quality of the materials make these Frocks exceptional at this price—they will prove sturdy under long wear. Sizes 36 to 44.

(Moderate Price Dress Shop—Third Floor.)

Silk Breakfast Coats
Reduced to $3.45

In this group are crepe de chine Coats and changeable messaline Coats—some with lace trimming, others self-trimmed. They are shown in pastel and high colors. All are exceptional values at this price and repriced at great savings.

Imported Flannel Kimonos
Unusual Values at $2.45

These Flannel Kimonos are made in tailored styles—the material, soft and warm, is shown in vivid paisley colors. The size range includes large sizes. In addition, a limited assortment of Beacon Robes for women and children is included.

EMERGENCY RELIEF FOR CHARITY CASES

Provident Association to Follow With Thorough Study of Needs.

Instructions have been given to the visiting staff of the Provident Association, a member of the Community Fund, to give emergency relief in all cases reported without first investigating the person to whom the assistance is to be rendered.

In issuing this order E. G. Steger, general manager of the association, has instructed the workers to give emergency relief in such measure as will "prevent suffering, insure health and a reasonable degree of comfort."

Steger explained that it is time enough after the emergency period is over to make the thorough study necessary if further attention is to be given those assisted. In order for the Provident Association to assist these families in helping themselves the investigation of their conditions is necessary, he declared. "Thorough" investigation is made," Steger said, "for the sake of the family as well as for the community. In the case of the family the organization has realized from wide experience that it must often be guarded against the tendency to rely on the community rather than on its own efforts. This frequently happens in the case of indiscriminate giving. In the case of the community it is only fair that thorough investigations be made, because it is upon the community that the Provident Association depends for money with which to give relief."

72 Billions in Life Insurance.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—New life insurance in the United States during the last year totaled $15,600,000,000, exceeding the previous high record of 1924 by $2,400,000,000, according to an estimate forwarded to the Department of Commerce by the Association of Life Insurance Presidents. The association includes 45 leading insurance companies which have in force $1,000,000,000 of life insurance, now in force in all United States legal reserve companies. The combined new insurance of these 45 companies amounted to $10,927,000,000, as compared with $9,109,000,000 in 1924.

CURRY CHARGE STILL UNDER CONSIDERATION

Sargent Says He Has Not Asked District Attorney at St. Louis to Resign.
By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—United States District Attorney Allen Curry of St. Louis was scheduled to appear again today with the Attorney-General, as to the complaint made to the Department of Justice regarding Curry. He saw the Attorney-General twice yesterday.
The Attorney-General, after the second talk with Curry yesterday, said Curry's resignation had not been requested, and that he had not decided whether a recommendation would be made to the President in the matter. Beyond this he refused to comment, saying that in fairness to Curry he would withhold a statement until the matter is finally decided.
Curry refused to say anything about his conversations with the Attorney-General, saying that he would make his statement and present his evidence to the Department of Justice only, and that if he had anything to say later, he would say it in St. Louis.
The pending inquiry, as is known, is into a complaint made by the wife of a defendant, as to Curry's personal conduct toward her, following her appeal to him for clemency for her husband, whom Curry's office had prosecuted. The matter was brought to the attention of the department by the woman's attorney, Gus O. Nations of St. Louis, former chief prohibition enforcement officer for Missouri.
While Curry, on arriving here, went first to Senator Williams and Representative Dyer, the two appear to have left the case entirely in the hands of the Department of Justice. Senator Williams arranged for the first conference of Curry with the Attorney-General.

ST. LOUIS MAN REAPS BIG REWARD

Says that After Suffering for Years with Constipation, Indigestion and Biliousness, He Has Been Restored to Health
Through the Use of Herb Juice.
"I certainly feel that I have reaped a big reward from my experiment in the use of Herb Juice.
For years I have suffered more than I can tell you in the last few years. I have been constipated
chronically, gassy stomach and severe bilious attacks.
All the remedies I have ever taken prior to this Herb Juice seemed to have failed. But after taking only a few bottles of this great remedy, I have been rewarded abundantly, because I have been restored to my normal health," said Mr.
H. Overmeyer, who resides at 1800
Hickory St., St. Louis, Mo., in a recent conversation with the Herb Juice man.

MR. H. OVERMEYER.
In further relating his story of his condition before he took Herb Juice, Mr. Overmeyer said: "I can only tell you of the ailments, but I can't begin to tell you of what I suffered from them in the last few years. I have been constipated dreadfully. So much so that the condition became chronic. I was also bothered with a very gassy stomach and indigestive disorder.
It seemed that after eating my food would just sour and turn to gas which caused me to bloat very badly as well as give me considerable pain through my stomach and chest. I would also have had bilious attacks. My rest was very badly broken. I had gotten to the place where I was just afraid to eat hardly anything, because I would suffer such bad after effects from
it. At last I decided to try Herb Juice and I am here today to give you this public statement in its praise. I want to say that it has done more for me than all the other remedies I have ever taken. I now eat anything I want and never suffer any more from those dreadful gas attacks. The fact is that this gassy condition has entirely disappeared, and my bowels are now in splendid condition and I do not have those bilious attacks.
I know beyond a question of a doubt that Herb Juice is responsible for this improved condition in my health and I think it exceeds any medicine in treatment of the stomach, constipation, etc. I have gained 8 pounds in weight since I started using Herb Juice and I can now sleep peacefully and have a surplus amount of energy. I do not hesitate to give my hearty endorsement to this wonderful remedy because it has done more for me than
I ever thought possible.
Herb Juice is the biggest selling medicine on the market where it is known. Hundreds are calling daily to see the Herb Juice man at Walgreen Drug Co., 514 Washington Ave., giving statements for publication and praising Herb Juice that their friends may be induced to try the great remedy which is relieving many sufferers in St.
Louis.

$5,000,000 for the Vatican.
ROME, Jan. 20.—The contributions to the Roman Catholic Church in Rome during Holy year, which has now ended, have amounted to no less than $5,000, 000. The largest single contribution of money was one of about $500,000 brought by an American, according to the Paris edition of the New York Herald. Italian pilgrims on official parties numbered 200,000 and those of private pilgrimages totaled 400,000.

ERA OF CLOSE MARGIN OF PROFIT FORECAST

Hardware Retailers Are Told of 50 Per Cent Overproduction in U. S.

An era of closer margin of profit is being forecast because,
the problem no longer is production,
but distribution, Alfred P. Haake, former professor of economics at the University of Wisconsin, told delegates to the Missouri Retail Hardware Association convention yesterday at Hotel Statler.

The consumption of the products of the amazing production system worked out during the World War now is necessarily American for the most part, the needs of Europe being largely met from European sources, since Europeans have turned their attention to production, he explained.

"This means that America's production power is 50 per cent in excess of the country's needs, because of wartime industrial inflation, and the problem is to create a demand by encouraging the purchase of new commodities before the old is worn out. This forced selling is making inroads upon the pocketbook of the retailer and consumer, because it means profits to many persons between manufacture and sale."

E. W. Hughes, sales manager of Butler Brothers, spoke on "The Successful Retailer." Advocating modern sales methods, he said:
"The net profits of any store come through selling and not through buying, and today merchants must sidestep the age old theory that buying is the profit-producing phase of their business."

The long-time credit system, detrimental to quick stock turnover,
is becoming unfashionable. E. J.
Johnson, assistant secretary of the Shapleigh Hardware Co., said, inviting an adjustment of stock to meet the needs of the community.

Paul J. Stokes of the National Retail Hardware Association, today will speak on "The Business Outlook" and Harold V. Borvig of the same organization will discuss
"Making It Pay." J. G. Wade, treasurer of the Missouri Association, also will speak. The convention will adjourn this afternoon.

NEGRO WOMAN QUELLS MAN WHO ANNOYED HER IN THEATER

When Miss Baby White Hartley, Negro, felt she was being annoyed by her neighbor in the Comet Theater, 2110 Market street, Monday night, she quietly laid her bat on the floor and swung on her oppressor.

Sam Ellington, 22 years old, Negro, of 2024 Olive street, testified in Police Judge Beck's court yesterday as to the potency of Miss Hartley's wallop. He was charged with peace disturbance.

"So I said 'What are you doing?'" testified Ellington, "and she said 'What are you doing?'"
"Well, what were you doing?"
asked the court.

"Nothing," replied Ellington. "I might have wigged a little bit because I had a cramp in my foot and I had both elbows sticking out like I always do."

"Did you buy three seats or one?"

"One, your honor."

"Fifty dollars."

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations. It is simple and cheap, but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle,
and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup. Instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It is truly astonishing how quickly
it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs,
soothing and healing the membranes,
and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract known the world over for its healing effect on the lungs.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions. And don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

FUTURE OF CENTRAL HIGH UNDETERMINED

Board Makes Statement Prior to Mass Meeting of Alumni Tonight.

On the eve of a mass meeting of Central High School alumni and students tonight, to protest against possibility of the school being closed permanently, H. F. Fahrenkrog, president of the Board of Education, issued the following statement, saying he knew of no such proposal:

"The report made recently by the Building Commissioner to the Board of Education in executive session caused the board to withdraw Central High School building from school use at the close of the semester on Jan. 23, pending extensive repairs that will preclude its use while under reconstruction. The Board of Education has gone on to determine the future use of this property. Any rumors concerning its future use are speculations merely and have no foundation in fact. So far as I know, the Superintendent of Instruction has no thought of recommending its permanent withdrawal. To my knowledge, no members of the board have ever contemplated tearing down the building or discontinuing the name of Central High School."

Mass Meeting Tonight.
The mass meeting will be at the school auditorium, Grand boulevard and Windsor place, at 8 p. m. Circuit Judge Hamilton, an alumnus, will preside. The audience will be called on to sing the "loyal song" and then, after selections by the school Mandolin Club, the Judge will call for discussion from the floor. No set program has been arranged and talks will be made by whoever desires.

The call for the meeting followed the recent announcement that the school would be closed because of the need of repairs. While the closing was ordered, the repairs have not been. The students will be sent to the new Beaumont High School and to Yeatman High, but the distribution of the faculty was not announced.

Students Would Remain Together.
So far the alumni, discussing the situation, have not objected seriously to the temporary breaking up of classes at Central, but the students want their bodies kept together as a unit even during the repair period. Students and alumni have the impression that once the building is closed, it may not be reopened as Central High.

The current issue of the High School News, student publication of Central, expresses opposition to present plans, and prints a number of letters of protest from alumni.

HUNGARY TO AID INQUIRY INTO FRANC COUNTERFEITING

Premier Condemns Insultations Against High Officials of Country.

BUDAPEST, Jan. 20.—The assertion that the French investigation of the Budapest forgery case, involving the counterfeiting of billions of French franc notes, had overstepped the boundary set by international usage, was a feature of the Premier, Count Bethlen's speech at the reopening of Parliament yesterday. It certainly went farther, he said, than what Austria expected to be allowed to do in Serbia in order to discover the Sarajevo assassins in 1914. Nevertheless, the Government he added, was prepared to lay bare any existing political background to the forgeries, though he condemned the insinuations against the Regent, Admiral Horthy, and other high officials.

How Skinny Kids Gain Needed Weight

Weak, undernourished, underweight boys and girls who are peevish, fretful and sickly need McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets.

Cod Liver Oil would do just as well, but what parent would be so cruel as to give them the horrible, nasty tasting, ill smelling stuff, when sugar-coated cod liver oil tablets made by McCoy's Laboratories of New York are as easy to take as candy and won't upset their delicate stomachs.

There's more vitamins in the first class in cod liver oil than in anything else and for that reason thin, scraggly, sickly children commence to live up and take on good healthy flesh after McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets have been taken for just a few days.

Be sure and ask Wolff-Wilson Drug Store, Walgreen Drug Co., Ender's Drug Co., Johnson Bros. Drug Co. or any drug store for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. If you want your delicate children to become strong, robust and active, get them these tablets.

For grown-ups they are just as wonderful. Fatigue caused by 15 bottles in five weeks. 60 tablets 60 cents and if they don't build you up in 30 days, your druggist is authorized to hand you back the money you paid for them.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist, Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga.

SEVEN YEARS FOR GANGSTER, WHO ADMITS HOLDUP

Charles Mercurio Pleads Guilty of Taking Auto, Robbing Owner and Then Putting Him Out.

On his plea of guilty of first-degree robbery, Charles Mercurio, a Hogan gangster, yesterday was sentenced by Circuit Judge Frey to seven years in the penitentiary. William Burk, jointly indicted with Mercurio, pleaded guilty last June and was sentenced to five years' imprisonment.

Mercurio and Burk were arrested Jan. 7, 1925, as they were riding in the automobile of Harry E. Rogers, 50 Lewis place. They were identified as the two highwaymen who held up Rogers, his wife and 5-year-old son in front of their home and drove off with Rogers in the latter's car. Rogers was ejected after being robbed of $3 cash and a $37 check. In the meantime, Mrs. Rogers had telephoned the police, who trailed the car and arrested Mercurio and Burk.

Indicted for Bank Holdup.
Mercurio is under indictment in connection with the $34,702 robbery of the Mount City Trust Co., March 3, 1925. One co-defendant has been acquitted and the trial of another resulted in a hung jury. Mercurio was accused in a confession which has since been repudiated, and a positive identification of him is lacking. It is understood the State plans to drop this case against him when it is called.

Last June Mercurio was sentenced to five years' imprisonment by Federal Judge Davis when he pleaded guilty of possession and sale of narcotics, but this sentence was withdrawn in order to turn him over to the State authorities. The sentence was to be reinstated if the State failed to gain a conviction.

Had the Federal sentence been executed, Mercurio would have found himself in Leavenworth prison, greatly outnumbered by the Egan gangsters there.

Took Part in Gang Feud.
Mercurio, who is 25 years old, was one of the Hogan gunmen. One of the numerous arrests listed against him in police records occurred on March 22, 1923, when the deadly feud between the Eganites and Hogans was at the peak. On that day, Mercurio and five other Hogans "went running" for the Eganites, starting from the Hogan home on Cass avenue, just 14 hours after the house had been bombarded by bullets fired by two automobile loads of "Egan's rats," some of whom are now in Leavenworth for mail robberies. Mercurio and his companions were stopped by police and arrested when six loaded revolvers were found in their car.

Will Begin Anew, He Says, When Told of Wife's Divorce.

By the Associated Press.
CHERBOURG, Jan. 20.—Rudolph Valentino made only one comment, when on the arrival of Leviathan here, he was informed by The Associated Press correspondent that a divorce decree had been pronounced against him—"That closes a chapter of my life; it only remains to turn the page and begin anew."

Sophie Tucker, who has been a head-liner in London music halls for the last two years, sailed to visit her mother, who is ill at Hartford, Conn. Miss Tucker's farewell at London was the occasion of the Irving Berlin breaking their seclusion. $50,000 IN ETCHINGS STOLEN
By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Thieves stole 200 etchings, valued at $50,000, from the Schwartz Galleries in Madison avenue Monday night, selecting their loot by aid of a catalogue. Etchings and paintings valued at $100,000, but which were not listed, were left on the walls.

The thieves are thought to have worked for several hours, selecting and packing the etchings. Among the etchings taken were works of

How Doctors Treat Colds and the Flu

To break up a cold overnight or to cut short an attack of grippe, influenza, sore throat or tonsillitis, physicians and druggists are now recommending Calotabs, the purified and refined calomel compound tablet that gives you the effects of calomel and salts combined, without the unpleasant effects of either.

Get a family package, containing full directions, only 35 cents. At any drug store.

One or two Calotabs at bedtime with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, work or pleasure. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you please—no danger.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

MOVE TO PADLOCK BIG CHICAGO HOTEL UNDER DRY LAW

Evidence Against the $10,000,000 Morrison Obtained by Man Imported From England.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Federal prohibition agents, working under cover, are reported to have gathered evidence under which an attempt will be made to padlock the $10,000,000 Morrison Hotel, tallest hostelry in the world, on a charge of having disobeyed the abatement of a nuisance clause of the Volstead act.

Harry C. Moir, owner of the hotel, when informed of the charges made by the agents, declared the whole affair was "a climax of conspiracies, entrapments and bribes." He said warrants would be asked by him for two employees of the hotel, one of them a house detective, named by the Federal agents as having furnished them with liquor.

The bulk of the evidence was said to have been gathered by Monte Goldie, a monied investigator imported from England by Lincoln C. Andrews, prohibition chief, and Albert Rolis, said to be an Australian perfume chemist.

Met House Detective.
Rolis arrived at the hotel Jan. 7, and, according to information obtained at the hotel, struck up acquaintances with several employees and met the house detective. An aid of Rolis, named Hopkins, obtained a case of whiskey and a bottle of gin through the detective, the agents charged.

Early last week, according to information, another case was delivered through the detective and a waiter to Rolis, who made arrangements for a party in his room.

According to the dry agents, the presence of the liquor was known to a hotel officer, who, they say, made no effort to notify the guests that the law was being violated. Moir said it was ridiculous to talk of padlocking the hotel, which, he said, had made special efforts to prevent violation of the prohibition law by guests and employees, offering rewards for information leading to the conviction of any employee on a charge of violating the law. He said it was virtually impossible to prevent some liquor selling by unscrupulous employees.

New Year's Eve Incident.

The hotel attracted some attention New Year's Eve when two Federal agents assigned to its restaurants and cafes were refused admittance by a uniformed policeman. The policeman said the men were under the influence of liquor. Moir said a complete report of the incident had been made by him to E. C. Yellowley, Federal prohibition director here.

Rolis was assigned to the hotel by Col. Green, head of the new intelligence unit in Washington. He was assisted by his mother, a Mrs. Harris. She and Goldie.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The Aluminum Company of America, which has been fighting the Federal Trade Commission's ruling against its practice of guarding evidence as confidential, today told a Senate committee that the department's action in the case, apparently had not understood the question of protection involved.

The committee is seeking information whether the Justice department followed a policy of guarding evidence as confidential in the case against the company. Secretary Mellon is a stockholder in the company. The committee did not permit the company to keep confidential the evidence secured from the company. Walsh asked Walker how long he would take to do upon the basis of your whether the Aluminum company had violated decrees of the court.

"A few hours," Walker said. He said a comprehensive investigation, such as the Justice department undertook last January, have been completed within four months.

W. H. S. Stevens, an eight weeks would be for an investigation by the commission's report.

The name and address of the author must accompany every contribution, but on request will not be published. Letters not exceeding 200 words will receive preference.

Wabash Delmar Viaduct.

THE letter signed W. A. Wheeling, State legislative representative, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, published in the Post-Dispatch of Jan. 14, in which Mr. Wheeling takes the ground that the city should construct the Delmar boulevard viaduct over the Wabash tracks at a height of not less than 22 feet from the rail, so that employees on top of railroad cars shall have freedom from low-bridge danger, is disingenuous in the extreme.

As I remember, the city contended that to construct the viaduct at more than 18 feet from the rail would grievously interfere with the appearance of the most beautiful business street in St. Louis, depreciate property and lay an unjust expense upon taxpayers, and that to avoid danger to trainmen at an 18-foot clearance the Wabash should depress its tracks six or more feet, from the boulevard to Duane avenue.

This would mean depression of tracks under E. 12th avenue, the Olive Street road, Hamilton, Laurel, Union and De Baliviere avenues. Does the obligation to protect railroad employees rest entirely with the city, as Mr. Wheeling appears to believe, or with the railroad? In this relation it appears that adjustment of the Wabash crossings on other streets, notably E. 12th, the Olive Street road (a most dangerous crossing on a main thoroughfare), Hamilton, Laurel, Union and especially De Baliviere should be given heavy consideration. Is De Baliviere, a beautiful street, opening on the Jefferson Memorial, to be made practically a blind street, shutting out view of Forest Park and of the memorial by a viaduct constructed at not less than 22 feet in height from the rail merely to oblige the Wabash?

"Service With a Smile."

THE Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I HAVE just finished reading Mr. Burke's letter and your editorial, "Service With a Smile," and wish to say that I most cordially agree with the Post-Dispatch.

The last cold spell of weather we had there was little or no fire in the cars I used (about 6:20 a. m.). I live almost at the end of the Cherokee line, so I spend anywhere from 55 minutes to an hour and 15 minutes getting to Fourth street, and amed with almost frozen feet and blue lips.

This isn't once in a while I received poor service from the U. R. It is twice a day. So I for one stand pat, it's "show me" for the new organization. Their talk sounds good, but we are tired of talk. What the public want is service with a smile, not a snarl.

A REGULAR STRAPHANGER.

Central High's Misfortune.

MUST the student body, the faculty, as well as Central High School, submit to their sad fate? Will the "alma mater" that our grandfathers, perhaps great-grandfathers, sold and won trophies for, after 70 years of prosperity, die a sudden death? Will the people of St. Louis see the mother of high schools "run down"? No! A glorious covered Central. The teachers after hard work in establishing and promoting different organizations at the school, see them brought to an abrupt end? They might as well have dug ditches during those long years.

Board, think! Think before you stop centrally long and glorious career, and condemn her to the fate you have in store for her. Listen to our plea and save Central for our children and grandchildren as our fathers have for us. If Central cannot be saved, let us go to Beaumont, hear the name of Central and continue Central's long reign there. May Central's spirit prevail forever.

LOYAL CENTRALISTS.

A Pointer From Tulsa.

BEING a resident of old St. Louis, I naturally notice some things of a civic nature while visiting in the smaller towns in the Southwest. One thing I find here in Tulsa that I want to call to your attention and ask you the question "why?" Here in this small town, there is a fleet of service cars, similar to the ones that run out Delmar avenue in St. Louis. These cars are all seven-passenger cars, the same as they are in St. Louis, but in Tulsa the fare to ride in one of these cars from the terminus to the downtown district is 7 cents. They operate and maintain a service that has St. Louis backed off the map. These cars are privately owned, but the city has the right to tell them where they can run, and what their fare will be.

Now the other side, St. Louis. The service cars charge a quarter, run when they please, and the city has no control over their operation. Why is it Tulsa can operate service cars for 7 cents and in St. Louis the fare is 25? There's something wrong somewhere.

A CITIZEN OF ST. LOUIS.

SERVICE AT COST.

Although Mayor Miller assumes that the city has more power than it really possesses in dealing with the reorganized United Railways, yet he is right in approving the service-at-cost plan. This plan has worked admirably in Cleveland and other cities which have adopted the principle of service at cost.

The Post-Dispatch has thrashed out the question in both its news and editorial columns. We have given a clear exposition of the working of the plan in Cleveland, and have insisted that it was the best possible solution of the transportation problem here which would be presented as soon as the United Railways was reorganized.

The power to regulate public utilities is vested in the Public Service Commission. The city cannot grant franchises, fixing returns, fares, conditions of service, etc., without regard to the Public Service Commission. As the Post-Dispatch has said, the courts have sustained the power of the commission to determine valuation as the basis of earning power, fix rates and determine conditions of service.

We believe, however, that the city and the street railway company can enter into an agreement to adopt the service-at-cost plan, with the approval of the Public Service Commission. The plan, as it has been put into operation elsewhere, is simple. The company is guaranteed a fixed return on its investment valuation. That, of course, is determined by the Public Service Commission. Both the city and the company must accept the Public Service Commission's valuation as the basis of the return guaranteed the company. The fare is fixed automatically to meet the return guaranteed to the company and the expenses of maintenance and operation.

The service-at-cost plan includes city representation on the management of the company. The city has free access to the books. The city controls the service. The city can demand and obtain extensions whenever needed. The cost of new construction is added to the capitalization upon which returns are guaranteed.

Whenever the revenue is insufficient to meet the fixed return of the company's capital valuation and the expenses, the fare automatically goes up. If the revenue exceeds the needs of the company for returns and expenses the fare automatically goes down.

Under this system the company gets reasonable returns for its capital investment, as fixed by the Public Service Commission, and the people get the service they pay for. A co-operative relationship is established between the city, representing the public, and the company. The operation of the street railway system is directed by the company, but the city has a representation and a voice in its management and in obtaining adequate service for the public.

The company, having reasonable returns guaranteed under the agreement, will have no occasion to interfere with the fare. That will be fixed automatically by the needs of the company. Nor will there be occasion, unless there should be some failure of the system, for the Public Service Commission to regulate fares, since fares will be governed by the returns on capital and by the actual expenses of maintenance and operation.

We believe an agreement of this kind could be formulated, and that the Public Service Commission would approve it, subject, of course, to its power to interfere if it should not work fairly, either for the company or for the public. Probably the matter of extension of lines and increase of capitalization would have to be submitted to the Public Service Commission. These things would be submitted jointly by the city and the company, and if there were any differences between them the commission would adjust the differences. Since the company is amply protected in the matter of its dividend earnings, the question of extensions would be a matter of judgment, as to cost, earning and public needs.

The service-at-cost plan contains provisions for the city's purchase of the system, on conditions fair to the company.

Since the Mayor and the reorganizers of the company are agreed on the service-at-cost plan, we suggest that the city officials, appointed by the Mayor, and the company officials proceed to draw up an agreement and submit it to the Public Service Commission for approval. The basis of the plan could be taken from the experience of Cleveland and other cities. We have no doubt that a satisfactory agreement could be made.

Adoption of a plan of this kind would prevent any question of the exploitation of the city by the street railway company. It would settle the question of the terms of the franchise. It would give the people a street railway system and the service that they want and are willing to pay for. Cleveland's experience indicates that under the plan we could enjoy better service and lower fares. Hostility between city and company would cease.

A HUMILIATING EXPERIENCE.

Cole Blease's attack on diplomatic immunity and on the personal character of diplomats was a humiliating experience. The tone of our public life is done too high, but seldom does it descend to the fishwife level of the Senator from South Carolina. There will be many public apologies to the diplomatic corps, and this is one of them.

"BABBITT" ABROAD.

Berlin book shops report increased German interest in American books. It is said America's importance in wealth and trade has something to do with it; the feeling that relations would improve by some consideration for our men of letters; the hope that trade might wax with a better knowledge of our people and their customs, as reflected in the literature of the day. But the fact that some of it is literature is also an influence.

Sinclair Lewis' "Babbitt" is among the popular translations. Before that it had a vogue among Germans who can read English. It pleases many who read it as a thrust at American customs and viewpoints. It has been recognized as satire and self-criticism. Nor is that the scope of its appreciation. Germans have come to realize that, with a change of setting and other minor modifications, it might have been written in Germany of Germans. So much is humanity akin that this is not unreasonable. Neither hokum nor ignorance nor foolish pride is a national monopoly, and Philistines in Germany and elsewhere may find a lesson in "Babbitt."

It is as important there as here, however, that they sense the fine satire, rather than read into it a condemnation of all business as business, or all of life that seems provincial to the cosmopolite. There is a place for self-criticism in Berlin as well as Zenith; in Gotham as well as Gopher Prairie.

MONSTERS AND PORTENTS.

The air is filled with monsters and the sky with ominous portents. The Senate chamber roars prophecies of the terrible things that will happen to the American people if the United States participates in the Permanent Court of International Justice.

It is an awful thing to have anything to do with an international court. Our Senator Reed describes it as "an absolute oligarchy, undemocratic, despotic and infamous." He paints a horrifying picture of the United States embroiled in the disputes of the world, and of our young men and young women sent abroad to die in foreign lands, in the embroilments and battles of foreign countries.

We thought it was a court to establish justice, settle judicial disputes, reduce friction between nations and promote international law and order. Apparently we are woefully mistaken. The irreconcilables depict it as an engine of injustice, and a fomenting of war. The court has been in existence and working for several years, and has not caused any wars or embroilments, but has settled a number of disputes to the entire satisfaction of the parties involved.

Why argue from facts and experience against the prolific imagination of a Reed, a Johnson or a Blease? They are men of vision, far-reaching, unlimited, conjuring vision, who see horrid menaces in any sort of international court, or anything in the way of international co-operation to maintain peace.

THE TARIFF ON TIRES.

Representative Hawes of St. Louis has introduced a bill in Congress to repeal the 10-per-cent tariff on rubber tires. In view of all that Mr. Hoover has said about the ruthless profiteering of the British rubber monopoly it does seem as if the Government would be eager to do everything in its power to get rubber products to the American consumer as cheaply as possible. That, of course, is the way the millions of tire buyers feel about it. But perhaps the tire manufacturers need that 10 per cent of duty to prevent the American market from being flooded with the cheap rubber tires of Europe's pauper labor. We suppose that is the reason. Anyhow, it is the only one the tire manufacturers can think of.

SALARIES WON'T DO IT.

Decadence and corruption threaten our Federal courts because of the miserable stipend paid Federal Judges. That, in substance, was the judgment of Charles Evans Hughes and John W. Davis, before the House Judiciary Committee in charge of the bill to increase the salaries of Judges in all Federal courts.

Mr. Hughes appeared in a new role. His usually precise, carefully chosen diction was missing. He talked a barefisted language. He contemptuously snapped his fingers at oratorical balderdash about "love for America." Away with such hokum and pay American Judges a living wage.

He went further. "You don't want a Judge," he said, "who is looking for a job. You don't want a man for a Judge who wishes to see what he can make on the side. Neither do we want the judgeships to go to members of Congress or the Senate who are hanging around looking for jobs." He characterized the salaries of the Supreme Court, of which he formerly was a member, as "disgraceful." Mr. Davis quoted John Marshall as describing an "ignorant, corrupt and dependent judiciary" as a public affliction. The inadequately paid man, he said, could not be independent in thought. He suggested, if present salaries are to continue, that Judges be required to "take the oath of celibacy so as not to expose their dependents to the hardships" of poverty.

Rough language this, but conditions justify it. And some such jolt is probably necessary to move Congress to act. But while the plight of Federal Judges may be relieved by decent salaries the problem of the Federal courts will not be solved by such generosity.

Our Federal courts are now smothered with litigation unworthy of them. Their dockets resemble the dockets of police courts. That is what purulent, officious and markish reform has done to the Federal courts. The Mann act, the Harrison anti-narcotic act and the Volstead act have polluted the very atmosphere of the Federal courts. They have raised vice, degeneracy and weakness to the dignity of important affairs. They take the time and energy of men of parts and character, as most of our Federal Judges are, which ought to be devoted to questions of real moment. Those three acts have magnified criminality and degraded the Federal courts. Once a Federal judgeship was an office of distinction which lawyers of ability ambitiously dreamed of. That splendor has been all but washed out in the filthy suds of reform.

Three things are necessary, it seems to us, for the restoration of the Federal courts. Decent salaries for the Judges; the selection of those Judges on the bright merit of professional worth instead of partisan political favor as now obtains; either the repeal of those vicious Federal reform laws or the creation of special Federal police courts to deal with the vermin that now infest the Federal courts of record.

SOCRATES AND HIS PUPILS.
SOCRATES: I suppose you young men saw what Lady Cynthia Mosely had to say about Socialism the other day?

GLAUCON: Yes. Is it true, Socrates, that anything but Socialism is such a deadly bore that only morons can stand it?

SOCRATES: I suppose it is. Lady Mosely, who seems to have no difficulty getting into the country, despite the watchfulness of Kelloggs, who is no admirer of theoretical politics, says that unless you are a Socialist in England you cannot run with the Illuminati. That is, if you want to meet people like Mr. Shaw and Mr. Wells on anything like an intellectual footing, you must be a Socialist and laugh at the absurdities of primitive politics in the same way that around universities they laugh at the myths of primitive religion.

THYRAZYMACHUS: I suppose Kelloggs would much rather let Lady Mosely in than precipitate a comparison of Socialism and the sort of politics we have over here.

SOCRATES: No doubt. You will recall that Kelloggs was for a short time our Ambassador in London, and he naturally came into contact with that world of thought which regards ordinary politics pretty much as civilized people regard Indians.

POLEMARCHUS: What would you say is the reason that men like Shaw and Wells, for instance, are Socialists?

SOCRATES: That is easily answered. Men of that type are not deceived by the inconsistencies of practical politics. They know very well that civilization is made, as Wells expresses it, for a very few people. They embrace Socialism as something that might be, precisely as in religion we presuppose a state of perfection in heaven. The intellectual knows we are not going to have perfection here, and it therefore becomes to him an ideal such as is indicated in the celebrated assurance that we shall meet on that beautiful shore. Men cannot live with those ideals. They are the dreams which have always roused us from content with what we are. The finest thing about human nature is that its aspirations are beyond it.

GLAUCON: I suppose that writing the outline of history made Wells a Socialist.

SOCRATES: It would have done so had he not already been one. Socialism is much too beautiful a theory for this unbecomingly world. It is too bad we cannot have it, just as it is too bad we cannot have peace or any other ideal which one would expect of rational beings. The trouble is that we are not rational beings. We are a very credulous and irrational lot, and every ideal fails. However, you cannot keep us from dreaming of what might be if it could be.

POLEMARCHUS: Lady Mosely knows this. I suppose.

SOCRATES: She must. She has been running with that set.

THYRAZYMACHUS: I don't wonder that Kelloggs did not want to argue with her.

SOCRATES: No. She would merely have stood him on his head and walked in over his hat brim.

GLAUCON: You have it, I fancy.

A ST. LOUISAN ABROAD.

TOULOUSE.

Our road to the High Pyrenees mounted slowly, at first, out of the primitive little Basque town of St. Jean Pied de Port, then climbed in zig-zags through stretches of wilderness, and above fine valleys, then wound in great circles along hair-raising precipices and gorges, until it rose beyond the timber line, and brought us to the great "Col" or Pass, where the magnificent snow-topped range, stretching from the Atlantic to the Mediterranean, lay exposed to the eye. Great peaks, deep valleys, lofty "cirques," and glittering glaciers formed a boundary, indeed, between France and Spain. Thrilling stories were told us of smugglers who traffic through these closely guarded passes. But it would seem that anyone who gets a load of anything across that grim barrier has earned whatever he may have saved by the effort.

The road that took us from these heights down to the Cauter Valley was beyond description. Eagles circled above great crags and mountain sheep scampered away as we passed. Lovely lakes, like those in our Canadian Rockies, occupied positions at the foot of many a glacier. At Luz, a quaint little town enclosed by towering mountains, a market was in full swing. Peasants in colorful costumes were making merry, and selling their homemade wares from panier and donkey-cart. Here we fell across a twelfth century church of singular design, with towers, battlements and an encircling wall—really more fortress than house of worship.

From Luz to the Cirque de Gavarnie was a wonderful drive. Miles before we got to it, the sheer walls of the Cirque could be seen rising, like a great amphitheater, to tremendous heights enclosing below perpetual deposits of snow, and supporting above glaciers from which issued the cascades and mountain streams that roared in the gigantic gorge through which we were approaching, and drove the great turbines of the hydro-electric plants along the way. There is something uncanny about these cirques of the Pyrenees, seemingly so close and threatening, yet so distant and inaccessible. Our next stop was Luchon, one of the many spas of this region, with fine hotels and hot springs and waters that cure everything from insomnia to housewife's knee.

Sir: The habit this Government has of running down and hog-tying many great lawyers, forcing them, against their will, to serve on the Federal bench, thereby sacrificing their enormous private practice, should be discontinued.

All of these heroic souls should be allowed to resign and return to private practice, or their salaries increased to $485,000 per annum, with both a town and country residence, rent free.

WAYNE WHEELER ON JACKSON.

From the New York Times.

PRETENDING solemnity, Senator Edwards made the frolic remark that were Gen. Jackson still flourishing he would challenge Mr. Wayne B. Wheeler, General Counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, to fight a duel. As a good Jacksonian, Democrat, Mr. Edwards must be familiar with that stalwart though silk-tasseled case which his hero carries in perhaps the best known and most characteristic of his engraved portraits. If a person with the notions, whatever their merit, of Mr. Wheeler can be imagined as existing in Old Hickory's time and throwing them in his teeth, that walking-stick might have swished wrathfully. Anyway, Jackson's dueling days were over years before he became President. Mr. Wheeler, instructing Mr. Edwards, extols President Jackson as the undeviating enforcer of the Constitution and the law and quotes some of his redomesticated about South Carolina.

A thick stratum of myth overlies the famous controversy. It is enough to say that South Carolina won her point, the reduction of the tariff, and that it was Jackson himself who twice allowed and sympathized with Georgia's defiance of the Supreme Court. He took away from the Cherokee lands the Federal troops necessary to protect the rights of the Indians under their treaties with the United States. He violated the Constitution, which declares all treaties made by the United States part of "the supreme law of the land." Nullifier or enforcer according to his own sweet will, he was about as unfortunate an example of the impartial executive as Mr. Wheeler could have found. One almost wishes that our dry friend could have been made to live in Jackson's Washington. How he would have enjoyed seeing President Jackson backing unsuccessfully his home-bred cocks at Bladensburg! How he would have loved him, betting on his horses at the nearby National Course, present with most of his Cabinet at the races thronged with Jacksonians and Whigs!

If the races interfered, as they often did, with a quorum in Congress, what of it? Gambling by night, guzzling all the time—these were the simple habits of many of our statesmen, less than a hundred years ago. Liqueur everywhere. Famous men drank it. Henry A. Wise, speaking in the latter body, the majority of its members were loudly and joyously intoxicated on one occasion. The tremendous change in social habits since then has not been brought about by legislation. It was wrought by the action of the Senate and the House, by common sense, by considerations of propriety and health, by persuasion and example, and by a slowly developing invisible code of behavior. Of themselves people were becoming temperate or abstinent. Mr. Wheeler and his friends said that nobody should be made abstinent by law. If impossibilities are still impossible, if there is a natural and inevitable reaction toward excess, the fanatics and their hired men have only themselves to blame.

MINOR BASILICA CREATED IN ST. LOUIS

St. John's Catholic Church
Elevated to That Rank
Order of the Pope.

St. John's Catholic Church, located on Chestnut street, between 10th and 11th, has been elevated to the rank of minor basilica by the Pope. The elevation was announced today by the Pope's secretary, Father T. Semon, pastor of the church. The church, which was founded in 1848, is the only one of its kind in the United States. There are but two other minor basilicas in the United States, St. John's in Chicago and St. Mary's in Minneapolis. A major basilica is located in New York City. Two other minor basilicas are located in Canada.

MINOR BASILICA CREATED IN ST. LOUIS

St. John's Catholic Church Elevated to That Rank by Order of the Pope.

St. John's Catholic Church, Sixteenth and Chestnut streets, has been created a minor basilica by Pope Pius XI and will be hereafter known as St. John's Basilica. It was announced today by the Rev. John T. Senn, pastor. Father Senn received notification of the elevation of the church's rank yesterday in a personal letter from Mr. Straniero, canon dean of the arch-basilica of St. John Lateran in Rome. There are but two other minor basilicas in the United States—St. John's Basilica in Chicago and St. Mary's in Minneapolis, according to Father Senn, and a major basilica is located in New York City. Two other minor basilicas are in Canada.

The rank of basilica means that the church is privileged to grant the same indulgences as those bestowed upon St. John Lateran arch-basilica in Rome, the oldest of the Christian churches and the cathedral of the Pope. It is the most richly indulgent church in Christendom and was founded in the year 324.

St. John's has been raised to its new dignity, according to Father Senn, because of patronage by transients and the large numbers of outlying parishes that through the church at noon-day masses on holy days of obligation. The parish proper has but a handful of families, because of the gradual encroachment of the business district, but its shifting congregation is large.

St. John's was founded on its present site in 1848. Its elevation to the rank of basilica was recommended to Rome by Archbishop Glennon and endorsed by Canon Straniero, who was a guest of the parish in 1886. He came to this country at that time to bring the red hat to the newly appointed Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore and extended his trip westward. Rev. J. H. Tihen, now bishop of Denver, was pastor of St. John's at the time.

The Los Angeles contains besides accommodations for a crew of two, a suite of five rooms, one of them with an unobstructed view of the city, and a large dining room with a piano and a bar.

A three-day service in honor of the canonization last May of St. John Eudes, founder of the Order of the Good Shepherd, will be held at the Good Shepherd convent chapel, 2801 Gravois avenue, beginning Saturday at 9 a. m. with solemn high mass. ## C. OF C. TO COOPERATE WITH EXPOSITION COMMITTEE

Major Julia Stinson Speaker of Evening at Opening of Women's Meeting.

The Chamber of Commerce will co-operate with the Executive Committee of the Women's National Exposition in acting as hostess to visitors at the Coliseum on the night of Feb. 16, when the exposition opens. Among those who are expected to be present as visitors are: Maj. Julia N. Stinson of Washington, D. C., head of the Army Nurses' Corps, Governor and Mrs. Baker, and an official staff from Jefferson City. Mayor and Mrs. Miller, Colonel David Stinson and staff from Jefferson Barracks, and Col. John Peggel and staff from Scott Field.

Preparations for the exposition which will close Feb. 22, are under way at headquarters on the second floor of the Town Club. It is planned that the opening night will present a brilliant display of color with the Roman canopy draped decorations set off against the dress uniforms of the officers from Jefferson Barracks and Scott Field, when they join the welcome Major Stinson, the speaker of the evening.

According to the executive committee, the present indications are that all the booths space will be filled before the opening night. A large number of members of the Chamber of Commerce and their families are expected to attend.

ARTHUR B. TROMBLEY DIES

IN MINNESOTA HOSPITAL

Boly of Manufacturing Co. Manager to Be Brought to St. Louis for Burial.

Arthur B. Trombley, secretary and general manager of the Carr-Trombley Manufacturing Co., died yesterday of blood infection at the Mayo Brothers Hospital in Rochester, Minn. His wife will be brought to St. Louis for burial.

Mr. Trombley was 36 years old and had been ill for three months; the last two weeks being spent in the hospital. He is survived by his widow, formerly Miss Roxana Butterfield, of Mitchell, S. D., and a daughter, Kathryn, 10 years old.

He was born in Le Claire, Ia., and was educated in Dubuque. He became connected with the Carr-Trombley Co. of Dubuque in 1904 and in 1915 was sent here to take charge of the Carr-Trombley Co., which is a branch of the Dubuque firm. He was a director of the National City Bank and a member of the Algonquin Golf Club, the Missouri Athletic Association and the Masonic order.

Funeral services will be held Friday at the residence at 88 Aberdeen place, with interment probably in Dubuque.

Fellow Workers of Veteran Post-Dispatch Employee Serve as Pallbearers.

Fellow workers in the business department of the Post-Dispatch were pallbearers at the funeral of William E. Taylor, at the Lupton chapel, 4449 Olive street, this afternoon. Mr. Taylor, who was 64 years old, was director of classified advertising of the Post-Dispatch and had been in the service of the paper since 1872.

The funeral was in charge of the Rev. Dwight Bradley, pastor of Webster Groves Congregational Church. The pallbearers were J. T. Keller, A. G. Lincoln, George M. Burbach, Berry Moore, A. E. Schmidt and J. W. Wiegand.

Junior C. of C. Banquet Tomorrow. The Junior Chamber of Commerce will hold its tenth anniversary banquet at Hotel Chase at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow. The principal speaker will be William S. Sallie of Chicago, president of the Junior Association of Commerce. A dance will follow the dinner.

COMB SAGE TEA
INTO GRAY HAIR

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients. It is known as Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur Compound and can be obtained at all drug stores for only 75 cents a bottle. While gray faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

PUBLIC SAFETY DEPARTMENT
MAKES GAIN OF $64,474

Brod Reports Revenue Increase of $20,046 and Cut in Expenses of $44,428.

Director of Public Safety Brod today announced his department was better off by $64,474.67 during the last seven months of 1925, when he was in charge, than in the same seven months of 1924. This included increased revenue of $20,046 and decrease of expenses by $44,428.67.

Director Brod assumed office by appointment of Mayor Miller on May 1 and about a month later began putting into effect economies he considered necessary. Numerous employees were removed from the payroll. Accordingly, his figures are for the period from June 1 to Dec. 31 of the two years.

Decreased expenses, by divisions, were given in the statement as follows: Fire Department, $957,224; smoke abatement, $330,000; fire and police telephone and telegraph, $15,653,224; building division, $12,999,871; weights and measures, $900,701. Increased revenue, in income-producing sections, was: Building division, $16,156; weights and measures, $20,600; smoke abatement, $282,000.

CONTRACT SIGNED FOR NEW BARGES ON UPPER RIVER

Representatives of Minneapolis Business Men Conclude Arrangements With Gen. Ashburn.

Indorsement by Secretary of War Regarded as Matter of Routine in Maritime Circles.

Contract for a privately-built fleet, to be on the Upper Mississippi River above St. Louis for operation by the Government this spring, was signed yesterday at Minneapolis by S. S. Thorpe and A. C. Wiprud, president and secretary of the Upper Mississippi Barge Line Corporation.

Brigadier-General T. Q. Ashburn, who will direct operation of the line as executive director of the Inland Waterways Corporation, spent the day discussing final arrangements with the business men of Minneapolis and St. Paul who have formed the $600,000 Upper River Corporation. He is to depart tonight for Washington, and there the document is to receive his signature and that of Secretary of War Davis, the ultimate chief of all Government development of waterways. Signing by Secretary Davis is considered little more than a matter of routine, since the contract was drawn along lines of a proposition made by him.

Docks Built 12 Years Ago. The line will connect at St. Louis with the present line on the Lower Mississippi, the pioneer experiment in the revival of inland river traffic. Nearly 12 years ago Minneapolis, in anticipation of this revival, spent $300,000 for dock improvement. Four years later Twin Cities grain men were sending out an "S. O. S." for freight cars to handle the 1919 crop. Not one steamboat had moored at the dock, and most of the shippers were unaware that the "experiment" below St. Louis already was under way, offering 20 per cent below rail rates for rail-and-water shipments to the Gulf.

Since then the experiment has demonstrated that river transportation, after the first hard years, can be made profitable to operators as well as shippers. It is no longer an experiment. The Upper Mississippi, under the contracts for Government operation of a privately-built line, becomes the first, and, along with the Missouri, the most important of the "feeder lines" of which the development has been expected inevitably to follow such a demonstration.

Survey of Tonnage. A survey made by the Minneapolis city engineer last summer indicated that a part of the local industries could offer annually for shipment south 146,805 tons. The total amount carried by the Lower River line in its first year, beginning Sept. 28, 1915, was 92,150 tons.

The amount of southbound freight that passes through the Twin Cities annually is estimated at 630,000 tons, with tonnage northbound into Minneapolis by an itemized survey of 553,000, including 56,913 tons from St. Louis and 28,015 from New Orleans.

AMUNDSEN VISITS DR. COOK, HIS OLD FRIEND, IN PRISON. Explorers Sailed Together on Belgian Expedition to the Antarctic in 1897.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Jan. 20.—For three-quarters of an hour yesterday afternoon Capt. Roald Amundsen, arctic explorer who reached the South Pole, and Dr. Frederick A. Cook, who did not reach the North Pole, chatted at the Federal prison here. Cook was ship's surgeon on one of Amundsen's expeditions. The two men joked about their experiences together fighting ice packs in the frozen wastes. Cook is serving a 14-year term in prison for oil operations in Texas.

Amundsen declined to say one word about his friend afterward. However, on this visit, he presented Cook with a copy of his book, "The Polar Flight."

Blind Beggar Had $7000. DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 20.—A blind man on being searched at the police station here last night, after his arrest on a charge of begging, was found to possess $7000 in cash and cashiers' checks.

The Superlative Value of Values

The stately dignity of this unusual Walnut Suite is most impressive. Never have we offered a value to compare with it. It has so many desirable features to commend it that it is difficult to believe that it could be sold for such a low price. The walnut used has been carefully selected for its unusual figure. A wealth of hand carving further enhances its beauty. Burl walnut panels and contrasting tones complete a most pleasing effect. The finest cabinet work in genuine mahogany interiors serves to carry out the quality ideal. The pieces are unusually large; the vanity is 54 inches wide, the dresser 52 inches wide, the chest of drawers 53 inches high and 40 inches wide. Be sure to see this Suite.

FATAL SHOOTING OF WOMAN LAID TO JEALOUS MAN

Police Believe Bullet Was Fired Through an Open Window at Home in Madison.

A theory that Mrs. Isadora Fahey, 30 years old, of 722A Washington avenue, Madison, who was fatally wounded at a house party in Madison Monday night, was shot from the outside through an open window by a man who is believed to have been jealous of the woman, is being investigated by Coroner Bauer of Madison County. An inquest will be held this afternoon.

Mrs. Fahey, who was married and had two small children, was wounded in the chest of Mrs. Mamie Hicks, 35, of 915 Reynolds street, Madison. Mrs. Hicks related that on the way to St. Elizabeth's Hospital Mrs. Fahey told her that she had sat on a pillow on a bed in the bedroom and that a revolver under the pillow had been discharged. The bullet penetrated her back above the right hip. No one else was in the room. This story was repeated to the police by Mrs. Fahey before her death yesterday morning.

A revolver with one discharged cartridge was found in the bedroom. The police decline to disclose in advance of the inquest what evidence they have to disclose if the woman's story, except that it is based upon statements of a man who attended the party. There were three men and three women in the home. The police declare they now believe that the bullet which wounded Mrs. Fahey was fired through a window which was open and that the revolver was tossed into the room through the window. They have been searching for a man who has not returned to his home since the shooting.

Mrs. Hicks denied that there had been drinking at the party, but others said they had had wine.

Mrs. Hicks was in an automobile 15 months ago into which unidentified men fired a volley of shots, killing Constable Robert Bolan of Granite City, as the automobile stood on a road near Horseshoe Lake. She was uninjured.

MURDER OF FOURTH TOLEDO WOMAN LAID TO NEW SLAYER

Detectives Think Assailant Imitated Methods of Another to Hide Identity.

By the Associated Press.

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 20.—Toledo citizens have armed themselves against recurrence of a terror that has preyed upon the city for eight months while police seek the slayer of Miss Mary Handley, who was found beaten to death yesterday in a back yard adjacent to her home. The scene of the slaying is the center of the district in which three women have been killed and four injured by a clubber since last May.

While Safety Director Arthur Hill made the murder the basis for a plea for 25 additional policemen, detectives expressed the opinion the attacker of Miss Handley was hiding behind the identity of the slayer of the other Toledo women, by imitating his methods. Miss Handley's body was severely beaten and her clothing torn, as was the case in the previous attacks. Miss Handley was the divorced wife of Thomas Kelly, a contractor, and had been living with her two brothers for some time. She had been absent from her home for two days when her body was found.

The Handley brothers told police of a man discovered peeping in the windows of their home Monday night. They made no effort to apprehend him, they said.

ST. LOUIS SHIPPED $15,000,000 IN FLOWERS LAST YEAR

President of Growers' Association Says City Is Gaining on Chicago for Leadership.

St. Louis, as fourth flower distributing center of the United States, grew, bought and sold at wholesale $15,000,000 worth of flowers last year, more than double the figure for 1920, when the city ranked lower than tenth as a flower center, W. A. Rowe of Kirkwood declared in his presidential address yesterday at the St. Louis district meeting of the National Flower Growers' Association at Hotel Jefferson.

Rowe said that the rate at which the Southwest is turning away from Chicago to St. Louis for flowers might soon result in this city displacing Chicago as the principal flower center of the country. About 100 growers from Missouri, Illinois and Iowa attended.

Officers elected: President, H. J. Blitzen of Edwardsville; vice presidents, J. Stapp of Rock Island and C. E. De Weaver of Olivette; treasurer, W. J. Picher of Kirkwood; secretary, J. J. Benekopf of St. Louis.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician.

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, yellow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results. Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

The Leonardo Apartments Install Watrous Plumbing Fixtures

NO residence location in St. Louis could be more advantageous than that of the beautiful Leonardo Apartments, on Lindell Boulevard. This steel and concrete building stands right in the midst of the most handsomely appointed homes—within a block of the St. Louis Cathedral, and adjoining the Lindell Hall School for Girls. Churches, schools, hotels and theaters are within the readiest access; the Olive-Maryland street cars are only a block to the north, and the Locust, Lindell and Waterman Avenue busses stop almost at the doors.

Arrangement

An outstanding feature of the building is the layout of the different apartments. Each apartment is situated on a corner, with exposures in two directions. There is a beautiful lobby situated on the first floor furnished by Lammert. There are only four apartments to a floor—thirty-two in all.

Each apartment has living room with balcony, bedroom, bathroom, dining room, kitchen, and reception hall. Bathroom walls are finished in delicately tinted tile work of old rose, blue, buff, and green. Garage in basement may be entered without going outside of building.

The details of sanitary engineering are well in accord with the extremely modern character of the building's design and equipment. Watrous plumbing fixtures, which represent the farthest advance in this branch of science, are installed in every bathroom.

Leonardo Apartments

WATROUS FLUSH VALVE AND DUOJET CLOSET (WALL TYPE)

The design of the Watrous Duojet Closet entirely eliminates clogging and overflowing and the heavy repair bills thereby occasioned. They are also very economical in operation, as Duojet action consumes far less water for a thorough flush and refill than the usual single-jet type.

The Watrous Flush Valve measures out the exact quantity of water required by the bowl with which it is used, and no more. It therefore takes maximum advantage of the water-saving design of the Duojet bowl.

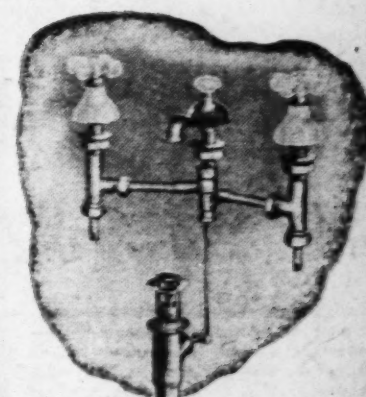

The Watrous Wall Bowl simplifies the work of cleansing the bathroom floor and eliminates "furred" ceilings and closet connections in floors—a great economy in erecting new buildings.

The Watrous Lavatory Fixture is an ornament to any bathroom. The control valves have non-rising stems and the connections have a swivel feature which makes this combination the easiest and quickest on the market to install on any type of lavatory. The pop-up waste is positive in action and has an extra large waterway.

Mother! It's Cruel to "Physic"
Your Child

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even if the child is chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement, but, best of all, never gripes, sickens or causes most delicate system. "Beware" that even a cross, feverish, sick child gladly takes it. Buy a large 60-cent bottle at the store that sells medicines and see for yourself.

fell in love with the picture of a girl on a Red Cross poster two years ago in Rome, was given a suspended sentence by Magistrate Glatzmayer yesterday after promising never again to annoy Mrs.
Helen Lewis, the object of his affection. Mrs. Lewis, whose likeness adorned the poster, served as a nurse in Italy during the war.
Raymond learned that she was married only when she arranged at the suggestion of detectives to meet him last Sunday. Mrs. Lewis

Tried Milks Emulsion and recovered quickly. Gained 9 pounds in 5 weeks.
"Last December I caught a heavy cold, which left me with a deep-seated cough. I coughed so hard it would start the blood. I thought I was a goner, until I tried Milks Emulsion. I used 9 bottles altogether. My cough is gone, and I have gained 9 pounds in 5 weeks.
If anyone doubts it, let them write me."—Chas. L. Walters, 147 So. 15th St., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Milks Emulsion restores healthy natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food, thus building flesh and strength, which are Nature's only aids in conquering germs and repairing the effects of wasting diseases.
This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream.
Wonderful for weak, sickly children.
No matter how severe your case,
you are urged to try Milks Emulsion.
If not satisfied with results, your money will be promptly refunded.
Price 60c and $1.20 per bottle. Sold

TWO NEWTON BOYS ARRESTED
AFTER RELEASE FROM PRISON

Members of Roundout Mail Robbery
Gang Held in Texas on Bank Robbery Charge.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 20.— Joe and Jesse Newton, members of the Roundout, Ill., mail robbery gang, are in the Hays County Jail at San Marcos today in default of $5000 bonds, following their arrest at Uvalde, 200 miles west of this city.

The Newtons, released two weeks ago from the Federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., after serving their sentences for complicity in the mail robbery, are being held on indictment charging them with robbery of the San Marcos State Bank and Trust Co., Jan. 5, 1924.
In addition to the Hays County charge, the men also are under indictment in Comal County for alleged participation in the robbery of the New Braunfels State Bank.

The border country southwest of this city has been closely watched for the last week by Federal and State officers in a search for the Newton brothers, who were believed to have had lost buried and been preparing to depart for Mexico.

CONFESSED SLAYER OF TWO HUSBANDS DECLARED INSANE

Mrs. Laura E. Christy to Be Sent to Asylum as Result of Finding of Medical Board.

By the Associated Press.
EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Jan. 20.— Mrs. Laura E. Christy, 48 years old, confessed slayer of two of her eight husbands, was found insane
by a medical board of East Liverpool physicians and will be sent to an insane hospital tomorrow.

Should physicians at the hospital disagree with the East Liverpool Medical Board, steps will be taken to have her returned here and the charge of first degree murder prosecuted.

Police said Mrs. Christy confessed she gave her eighth husband, the Rev. William Christy, poison. They had been married only nine days. She also confessed, authorities said, that she poisoned
her seventh husband, John Ebert, at Newell, W. Va. Ebert died last Nov. 7.

stock of $500,000, in its newly acquired plant at Persimmon. The industry is the first of its kind to be established in the St. Louis district.

The deed for the transfer of a 10-acre tract between the Wabash and Frisco Railroad tracks in Ferguson from Samuel W. Fordyce, an attorney, to the corporation was recorded yesterday at Clayton.
Revenue stamps indicated the purchase price to be about $70,000.
The tract is improved with several buildings and installation of machinery has started.

Officials of the match company

TRAINER WHO RAN WRONG HORSE POSTS $7579 TO REFUND BETS

Overall Was Entered at New Orleans Monday, but Token Did the Running

Mose Goldblatt Says He Was Unfamiliar With Horses and That Mistake in Identity Was Made When They Arrived at Track.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 20.—Race followers who bet on Overall in the fourth race Monday afternoon have $7579 coming to them in refunds if they are still holding their tickets, as a result of the unusual situation brought about when the wrong horse was run by a trainer.

This announcement, made yesterday afternoon, cleared up uncertainty which was hung over racing circles since it was revealed that the track followers had placed their money on a horse that didn't run.

It was believed that a few who held tickets on Overall were still in possession of their pastebords. Only those who held them, and can thus prove their bets, are eligible for the refunds.

One man did and then he didn't, and as a result missed a chance to make $700. He is Earl Frigerio, son of Placide Frigerio. When Earl found that the wrong horse had been run, he picked up $700 worth of tickets which had been thrown away after the race. He held them until yesterday. Then he decided that there would never be a payoff, despite the mistake, and tore them all up.

The bets were supposedly made on a horse named Overall, which had proved a superior muddler in the East and was dropped by racing experts to figure prominently in the running Monday. Mose Goldblatt ran the wrong horse. Token by name, and like Overall, the property of H. P. Whitney.

Token, a 3-year-old, and a fast track horse, carried Overall's weight, 112 pounds, and never figured seriously in the running.

Clockers at the track first suggested to Goldblatt that all was not well. Overall's trials convinced them that the Overall of Monday was not the same horse. They told Goldblatt, by long distance telephone he communicated with the Whitney head trainer, James Row, in Red Bank, N. J., and from his description of the horses, learned his mistake.

Goldblatt had been mistaken taken over the identity of the horses ever since they arrived here. A stableman who brought them and the two other horses in the stable to New Orleans explained that he failed to correct the error in identity because he was himself unfamiliar with the horses. The Jockey Club stewards issued a statement that they were convinced it was an honest mistake on Goldblatt's part.

Token was entered in the fourth race yesterday but was scratched. Late yesterday Goldblatt posted the Jockey Club the amount of money necessary to cover bets made on Overall, and racegoers were searching for the discarded mutual tickets. Racegoers who bet with the handbooks outside the track are wondering what chance they have in the way of getting a refund. They should not wonder long. No chance.

A total of $7579 was bet on the horse, $4862 to win, $1925 to place and $862 to show.

Local Bookies Will Refund Overall Bets, One Authority Says

ALL money was wagered in St. Louis on the horse Overall, in the fourth race, at New Orleans, Monday, will be refunded, according to the view expressed today by a widely known St. Louis turf speculator.

"All wagers are governed by the action taken by the track," he told the Post-Dispatch. "I have not seen the story as yet; but if the New Orleans stewards ordered a refund on Overall's mutual tickets, we will refund all bets laid on Overall. I think every other bookie in St. Louis will do likewise."

The New Orleans officials already have ordered a refund on all mutual tickets on Overall. Wagering on the Whitney entry in St. Louis was considerable, as at least one upstart had represented him as the "best bet."

He failed to correct the error in identity because he was himself unfamiliar with the horses. The Jockey Club stewards issued a statement that they were convinced it was an honest mistake on Goldblatt's part.

The Smoke Problem.

ST. LOUIS has two smoke problems, one outdoors, the other indoors. Both seem to be giving the experts a lot of trouble.

For it seems equally impossible to keep fight fans and chimney of this city from smoking.

Cruelty to Animals.

FIGHT promoters have time and again tried to enforce the "no smoking" prohibition at boxing contests. But before the evening is half over, despite the pronouncements of boxing commissions, the hall is half filled with smoke on almost every occasion.

So heavy is the haze that the odor lingers in one's clothes and hair the next morning. Imagine with what wheezing and protesting a fighter's lungs must be driven through ten rounds of battling in such an atmosphere. It is cruel but not unusual punishment to inflict on athletes who need oxygen, if nothing else.

The S. P. C. A. please note.

Render Unto Caesar.

RADICALS laugh at the New York Boxing Commission. It does radical, sometimes whimsical things. But it surely did right when it ordered Tex Rickard to put up his "no smoking" signs. Rickard's pure-air plant, designed to keep the atmosphere of his new Garden clean, cost thousands of dollars.

It failed to make good. Hence the commission will try to do what the fresh air plant could not.

Score one for the commission.

Oh Harry!

WE gather from what Harry McArthur writes that the Vespers are gradually getting their hand in.

If they continue to play soccer as they did last Sunday they may soon have their hands out.

Such a Waistline!

REPORTERS from New York say Babe Ruth's physical condition already is at its peak.

All right. We'll have a peek at it next April.

Football Values.

RED GRANGE, harried by too much publicity, turned on his bookies and declared that "an athlete in the public eye earns every cent he gets."

Let's size that up for his game at Los Angeles. Grange won $500. Yet here's what they did, respectively, during the contest.

Grange, Wilson. Gained... 35 yds. 123 yds. Runback of kicks 26 yds. Now Points... None. 2 yds. Carried ball... 10 times. 24 times. Longest run... 6 yds. 37 yds.

In 5 punts.

Page an Alienist?

CLARK GRIFFITH, keeper of the Washington Old Men's Home, is quoted as saying that next season he will bench Roger Peckinpah and Muddy Ruel in favor of Myers and Tate. Which might inspire the Cardinals to bench Bottomley and Hornsby for Heine Mueller and Toporcer. It's quite as reasonable.

Nothing Doing?

WASHINGTON University has not yet closed with its giving Marines for a Thanksgiving Day football game. A great many persons who are merely on the outside looking in are wondering why the Quantico Marines, and what an exhibition by them would mean to this city?

There is only one Thanksgiving Day game suitable, as long as local institutions continue to get out of bed, but not great events. That would bring together St. Louis and Washington Universities.

Besides giving the city the contest it really wants to view.

Cox to Play in Bears' Game With Coliseum Quint

Former Captain One of Leading Scorers in Valley Conference Last Year.

In an effort to present the most formidable combination he can muster when the Washington University basketball team takes the New Coliseum A. C. team on its Piquette court next Saturday night, Coach Don White plans to bench Frank Hutton at forward in favor of Wylie Cox, former captain of the Bears and one of the leading point scorers of the Valley Conference last season.

Cox has been practicing with the Washington varsity squad for several weeks past, although a "condition" in his studies caused him to be declared ineligible for Valley competition during the semester. Many fans hope to be restored to good standing in time for the game on Feb. 6 with the Kansas Aggies.

Although unable to take his place in the Bears' lineup for Con- hington basketball match, he is from appearing in non-conference or independent battles and his services will no doubt make it all the more certain that the Bears will win the Coliseum A. C. game.

St. Louis Golfer Defeats Reilly —Taintor Qualifies at St. Augustine.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 20.—Several favorites were eliminated while other players of lesser prominence forged to the front in the first day's play of the Miami annual midwinter amateur golf tournament here yesterday over the Miami Country Club course.

Lee Chase of Buffalo, N. Y., who led the field in the qualifying rounds, defeated William Wallace Reilly of Miami, 7 and 6. Other winners of the first flight follow: H. W. Adelberger of Dayton, O.; Joseph Ford of New York City; Roland Saunders of Miami; George Galena of Philadelphia; Wilfred Outmet, Boston; C. A. Roberts, Miami.

St. Louisan Qualifies. Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Jan. 20.—H. S. Taintor of St. Louis qualified for the first 16 yesterday in the annual St. Augustine golf championship tournament. He had a card of 45 and 47. The medal winner had an 80. Jack Cummins, 15-year-old Cleveland boy, furnished the sensation of the round with his 45 and 43.

Billiken Juniors Win Over Soldan

St. Louis University High School smothered Soldan High School, 34 to 15, in a game played on the St. Louis University High floor last night. The Blue and White held a big lead throughout. The great work of McNary and Strong was the main factor in the victory.

Over the Eureka J. C. 64 to 18. P. Richardson, at left forward, and Kahman played well for the victors, while Levy, Hassler and Hemker stood out for the Gold and Brown.

The Soldan seconds defeated the St. Louis University High second team, 30 to 26. An extra period was played to decide the winner.

Werners Play St. Ann's. The lead in the open division of the Missouri Basketball League will be at stake tonight when the Werners and Werners St. Ann quintets battle at Sherman Park.

The teams are at present tied with four victories and one defeat. In a previous meeting the Werners won. An admission of 25 cents will be charged to the spectators, and arrangements have been made to seat 1,000 persons.

Cleveland High School gained a 35 to 24 victory over Country Day. Hohn at center scored 20 points for the winners, while Disbrow counted eight field goals for the losers.

Principia Academy ran roughshod over the Eureka J. C. 64 to 18. P. Richardson, at left forward, and Kahman played well for the victors, while Levy, Hassler and Hemker stood out for the Gold and Brown.

Werners Play St. Ann's. The lead in the open division of the Missouri Basketball League will be at stake tonight when the Werners and Werners St. Ann quintets battle at Sherman Park.

The teams are at present tied with four victories and one defeat. In a previous meeting the Werners won. An admission of 25 cents will be charged to the spectators, and arrangements have been made to seat 1,000 persons.

Cleveland High School gained a 35 to 24 victory over Country Day. Hohn at center scored 20 points for the winners, while Disbrow counted eight field goals for the losers.

SAM WHITE'S GREAT FEATS

MY 30 YEARS IN FOOTBALL

By Fielding H. Yost

(Copyright, 1926.)

IN no other game does the emotional urge carry one forward in such lengthy steps as in football. The history of the game is full of successful last stands in the shadows of the goal posts by bruised and battered teams. The coach who can arouse his team into a highly emotional state of mind has done a considerable part of his job.

In the army there is a thing that is called "esprit de corps." It is a quality which catapults soldiers through all kinds of hazards to deeds of heroism. In football it is called spirit—fighting spirit.

Football spirit manifests itself in many ways. I recall going East six years ago to scout the Pennsylvania team. I stopped off at Princeton and spent the night with "Doggie" Trenchard. It was on the eve of Princeton's annual game with Harvard. Harvard was favored to win, but there was a strange atmosphere about Princeton that night, and I got the feeling, from the quietness and determination and repressed assurance, as I watched the Princeton team go through its last signal drill that Harvard was in for a stormy session.

Would Not Be Beaten. A newspaper man interviewed me on the probable outcome. I told him what I thought. My prediction came true. Harvard was beaten 8 to 6, and the next Saturday Yale was beaten 10 to 0. In each game, got off one of his famous runs, following a fumble. Princeton simply wouldn't be beaten.

On my way to see the Harvard-Yale game of 1908, I stopped at West Point to see Col. Nely, who had officiated at the Michigan-Syracuse game the week before. On the Monday preceding the game I was asked to talk to the Army players in the gymnasium. The 42 players sat on the floor, tailor-fashion, with crossed legs. In all my life I have never seen such intense interest. I had indeed to talk for only 15 minutes or so. The men had a full hour before the game and returned to quarters. I talked the whole hour, but I had no "yobuds." The Army team seemed to have that strange something that makes a team irresistible. It had spirit.

Army Team Celebrates. I'll never forget how the Navy men strutted about before the game. It was, perhaps, just as well, for after the game the Army celebrated. It had come to. It was a terrifically hard game, 6 to 4. Indeed, in the general jubilation the Army decided to give me a medal.

It was a game congested with drama and fight. I recall that Lange, the Navy quarterback, played back alone for punts—this even in a day when the ball was on-side the instant it touched the ground. Chamberlain, an Army halfback, recovered one of the on-side kicks and carried it to the four-yard line.

A Navy man spoke up. "What," he asked, "is the plebe quarterback going to do now?" He was talking to Hyatt, and Hyatt answered effectively and quickly. "I'd rather be a plebe in the Army," he added, "than an Admiral in the Navy, and just for that I'll make that touchdown through you."

He said that to Northcott, the Navy captain and tackle, and he was as good as his word. He sent Dean, Army back, right at Northcott, and Dean crashed over for the touchdown that proved to be the winning score. It came early in the first half, and several times the Navy appeared to be headed for a touchdown. But that Army team had spirit; it fought back; the Navy could do was to set a field goal.

Hyatt, by the way, played brilliantly that day and was one of the stars of the game.

Miss Wills Is Victor in 2nd Match Abroad

American Girl Defeats Peggy Saunders of England, 6-2, 6-1.

By the Associated Press.

CANNES, France, Jan. 20.—Miss Wills, America's foremost woman tennis player, received her first real tennis test on the Riviera today and came through with flying colors, defeating Peggy Saunders of England after a hard-fought match in the Metropole tournament. The score, 6-2, 6-1, apparently one-sided, does not indicate the strenuousness of the contest.

Miss Saunders, the 19-year-old girl whom English critics have hailed as a coming champion, appeared to be not in the least impressed by facing Miss Wills. She gave the American champion a real battle in the first set, but Miss Wills was supreme in the second, overwhelming her opponent by a score of 6-2.

A meeting between Miss Wills and Suzanne Lenglen is now practically certain to occur early in February. Miss Lenglen told the correspondent today that she would like to play in the singles of either the Nice Lawn Tennis Club tournament, beginning Feb. 1, or the Hilton Hotel tournament here, beginning Feb. 8.

Miss Wills is entered in the singles of both these tournaments, and the much-heralded match between the American and European champions is now as good as assured, unless either should be eliminated before the finals, which all experts agree would create a sensation greater than the match itself.

Miss Lenglen's decision to play the singles next month came after she had emerged victorious in both of the doubles matches in which she engaged today. Paired with Miss Vlasto, she defeated the Misses M. B. Brown and K. M. Ott of England, 6-0, 6-1, this time following without interruption a victory with Jacques Brugnon over Mrs. Calder and A. D. Bickers of England, 6-2, 6-3.

Miss Lenglen is in perfect physical condition; this was shown by the fact that, after a solid hour of play in the warmest sun the Riviera experienced this year, her respiration was hardly above normal.

REISLER SUSPENDED FOR LIFE BY COMMISSION

Action Follows Boxer's Assault On Referee Haley

John the Barber, Fighter's Father, Draws Suspension for Sixty Days.

By Hype Igoo, Of the New York World Sport Staff

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The career of Lightweight Fighter Johnny Reisler today is just a bursted bubble. Once a promising scrapper, today he stands deprived of his New York State license, which means that he is prohibited from boxing again in this State and every other community affiliated with the New York Commission, whether in this country or abroad.

Yesterday, at its regular meeting the iron heel of the New York State Athletic Commission pressed down on Reisler. His license was revoked because of a physical attack by Reisler on the veteran referee, Patsy Haley, made in the rooms of the commission, last week.

The committee's revocation of Reisler's license is equivalent to a life sentence, and sets a precedent. Reisler's father, who is the boy's manager, was set down for 60 days last week for having been involved in the rumpest that brought young Reisler under the frowns of the fathers.

Reisler is the first boxer to suffer a life suspension under the Walker law. When he appeared to tell his story last week he met Haley outside the confines of the meeting room. Rushing at the white-haired arbitrator he struck him, declaring that license or no license, he was even with Haley. Young Reisler's offense was unprovoked.

Todd, Middleweight Champion of England, Deprived of His Title

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—OLAND TODD, the middleweight boxer, who now is in the United States, has been deprived of his championship title by the British Board of Boxing Control.

It is declared that he has refused to accept justifiable challenges during the past three years.

The board decided that challenges for the middleweight crown could no longer be kept waiting.

Dempsey-Tunney Bout for Title Being Arranged

New York Paper Says Negotiations for Match in July Are Nearly Complete.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The Evening Telegram says today that negotiations are nearly completed for a heavyweight championship match between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney in July at Boyle's Thirty Acres, the Jersey City arena controlled by Tex Rickard.

"Crediting its information to a 'reliable source,' the Telegram says that Dempsey gave his verbal promise to Mayor Hague of Jersey City and Tex Rickard over the long distance telephone last week, after previously talking with Billy Gibson and Gene Tunney at Miami, Fla."

"No contracts have been signed," it goes on, "but every detail has been mutually agreed upon and official announcement only is being withheld until several important angles are straightened out. In the event of Dempsey falling in line to his agreement to box Tunney, the promoters will seek to fill in the date with a Tunney-Harry Wills contest."

The date suggested by the paper, July 4, falls on Sunday, so that the fight, if actually in process of arrangement, probably would be held July 3.

Saying that the "story probably will be denied by all parties concerned," the Telegram adds that the reasons for not now making official announcement of the fight include a desire to avoid any "ballooning" until New Jersey's new Governor, A. Harry Moore, is well settled in office; a wish to await expiration of Dempsey's present contract with Floyd Fitzsimmons for a match with Wills in the Middle West; and Rickard's hope that the New York State Athletic Commission may raise its ban on Dempsey to permit staging the match here.

Rickard refused to make any comment on the Telegram's story, either to confirm or deny its contents, but it is known he has looked forward to promoting not only a Dempsey-Tunney contest, but a Dempsey-Wills match, if possible.

Cradock Named to Handle Cup Tilt

Millers Practice for Game With Cleveland Soccer Team Sunday.

John Cradock has been selected to referee the first round United States Football Association cup game in which the Ben Millers, second placers in the St. Louis Soccer League, oppose the American Hungarians of Cleveland at St. Louis U. Field, Sunday. This was the announcement made today.

Manager Foley of the Millers sent his men through a practice session last night and probably will hold another in order to get his players in the best possible condition for the 45-minute periods.

The Cleveland entry has played in seven qualifying round cup tilts this season.

School Teams Play.

The St. Matthew and Cathedral elevens will meet for the third time tomorrow afternoon in an effort to decide the Parochial School League championship at Sherman Park, with Radford as referee. The two previous meetings resulted in 1 to 1 draws, both being called because of darkness. In the first battle, the two went 15 minutes extra without reaching a decision.

Coliseum Boxing Card Completed

The program of five professional boxing bouts to be presented next Tuesday night at the New Coliseum arena was completed yesterday afternoon when Matchmaker Gene Straus signed Lawrence Hawkins, Negro featherweight star, for a six-round engagement with Indian Joe, a dusky junior lightweight scrapper. They will meet at catch weights in the first prelim.

Tuesday night's card now calls for two 10-round attractions and two six-round preliminaries. In addition to the curtain raiser, which is billed as an added event. The other prelim contests will feature Eddie Goldberg and Pete Renner, featherweights, and Tom Pivac and Mahn Dugan, heavyweights.

Henry Malcor, the Carlisleville boxer who will oppose Babe McCorgary of Tulsa, Ok., in the light-heavyweight event of Tuesday's double wind-up, is scheduled to report today.

Malcor had been training in Chicago prior to his match at Gillespie, Ill., last Monday night, in which he defeated Kid Dugan. McCorgary is prepping at the Business Men's gym.

No other tobacco is like P. A.

YOU have no idea how wonderful a home-rolled cigarette can taste till you fill a paper with Prince Albert. Boy, howdy! P. A. is the real, blown-in-the-bottle quality tobacco. It has no second cousins . . . no "doubles." Just prove this for yourself.

Get a tidy red tin or a toppy red bag of Prince Albert. Put a pinch in a paper and do your well-known finger exercise. Notice how hunky-dory it rolls. Prince Albert is crimp-cut and stays put. Doesn't land in your lap or blow half-way across the county with the first breeze.

And . . . the real thrill comes when you connect with a match. How cool it smokes! How fragrant it is! How friendly! P. A. can't bite your tongue or parch your throat. The Prince Albert process says "No!" to that with a capital N. Try this better cigarette tobacco.

And if you sometimes get a hankering for a drag at the old jimmy-pipe with some really friendly tobacco, try P. A. this way. Prince Albert has put three pipes where there was only one before. No idle chatter, that. Get next to this big-league tobacco today.

PRINCE ALBERT
—no other tobacco is like it!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins and toppy red bags. And always with every bit of bias and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.

HIGH STOCK SELLS HIGHER ON EXCHANGE

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, Jan. 20.—Huttlig common stock sold at a new high on the move today.

Another feature was the tone of United Railways 4s which were bid up to 77 in afternoon without sale following light turnover at 75 1/2 in morning. Consol later in day was unchanged at 80 1/2. United Electric preferred was up 1/2 point over previous close after recovering morning slight setback.

In the morning trade Ely-Walker common was unchanged. International shoe common at 80 1/2. Nearly 300 shares of Huttlig stock changed hands in morning trade on rise to 41 1/2. There was a fairly large turnover, comparatively speaking, of Emerson Electric preferred, mostly at fractional decline.

MIXED PRICE CHANGES ON THE COTTON MARKET

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The cotton market today was steady, with a decline of 1 1/2 points to an advance of 1 1/2 points. The market was influenced by reports of a decline in the cotton crop in the United States, and by the fact that the cotton crop in the United States was expected to be smaller than in previous years. The market was also influenced by the fact that the cotton crop in the United States was expected to be smaller than in previous years.

MANDAMUS ACTION IN COUNTY CONTRACT DISPUTE LIKELY

Judge Smiley, Democrat, Refuses to Sign Warrants for Two Contractors.

Mandamus proceedings likely will be resorted to if Presiding Judge Smiley of the St. Louis County Court persists in his refusal of yesterday to sign county warrants for two road material contractors.

One warrant, for $45,803, is for the Cabell Petroleum Co., for road oil furnished last summer. Judge Smiley had opposed award of this contract because the company was not the low bidder, and this was his reason for not signing the warrant. His two colleagues in the court voted for the contract, and subsequently a taxpayer filed a suit to enjoin its performance, but the suit was dropped.

The other warrant held up is for $41,295 for the Barrett Co. for tarvia, a surfacing material, provided last summer. Judge Smiley's refusal in this instance is based on his contention that the specifications for the contract prevented others from bidding. Other county officials dispute this view and the fact was that there were other bidders.

Judge Smiley, a Democrat, often has been outvoted by Judges Preiss and Bohring, machine Republicans, but his signature is essential to the validity of all warrants.

OVERHEAD HIGHWAY FOR CENTER GROVE CROSSING

Judge Pillow Indicates Order Will Be Issued Shortly by Illinois Commission.

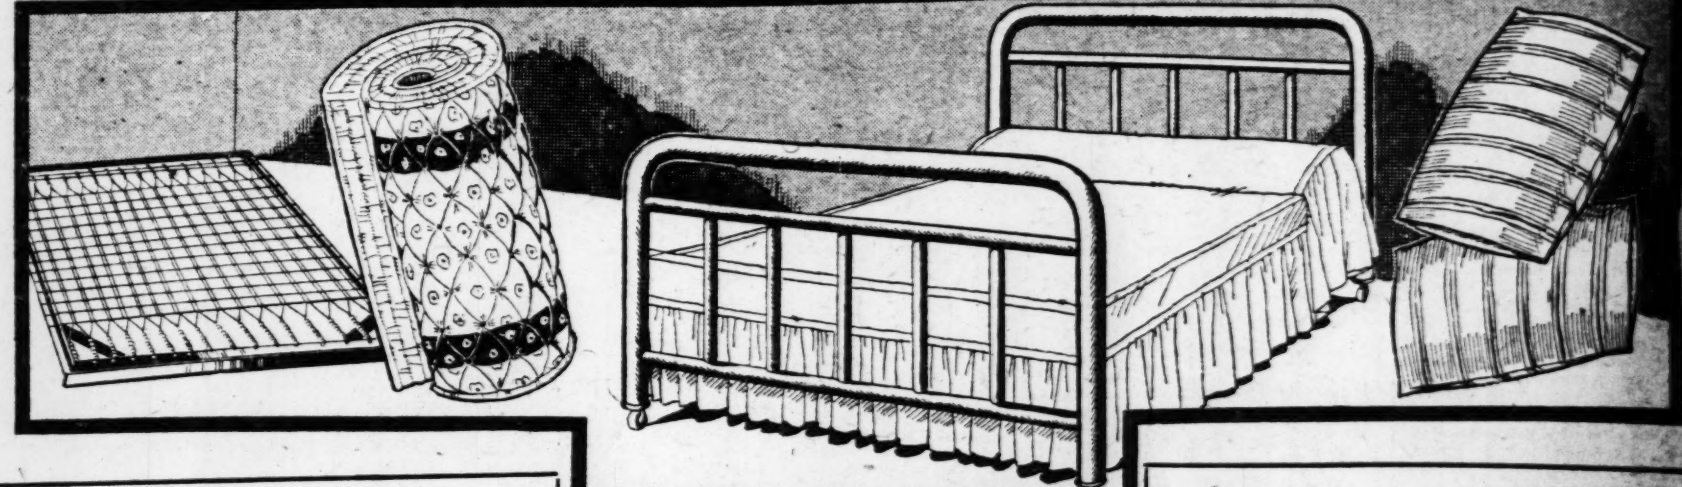

According to Judge George W. Pillow, a representative of the Illinois Commerce Commission, who was in Edwardsville yesterday, hearing cases, the commission has prepared a new order in the Center Grove crossing case, and it will be issued within a few days.

This is the crossing where seven men have been killed through interurban cars hitting automobiles in the last 36 months. The Judge stated that the order would require commencement of an overhead crossing within 30 days, and that the cost would be nearly equally divided as between the State Department of Highways and the Illinois Traction System.

AN APPEAL FOR HELP.

WHEN Nan opened the door of Louis Brandon's studio she found Mona Vail there alone, reading on the couch under the windows.

She was too perturbed by her interview with Danforth to care what the girl thought when she asked: "Where is Mr. Brandon?"

Mrs. Vail lifted her brows, glanced significantly toward the appointment book on her desk and said: "You haven't made a mistake about your lesson day, have you? It's tomorrow at 3, I believe."

Nan flushed. "Certainly I know when my lesson is. I wish to see Mr. Brandon on a matter of business."

"I can attend to any business for Mr. Brandon," the other girl reminded her calmly. "He is not in, as you see."

Nan seated herself coolly, though she was racing inside. "Then I'll wait for him, if you don't mind. It's a personal matter, I wish to consult him about."

"Oh, I thought you said it was business," Mrs. Vail murmured sweetly, but she cast a venomous glance toward the visitor.

Nan made no reply. She picked up a book and pretended to read. Mona returned to the magazine in her lap, but each watched the other warily.

Nan scarcely knew what she expected in the way of assistance from Brandon, unless it was in the form of a check on the account of her claim that she had never ordered Danforth to paint her portrait and that he himself had begged to do it.

She had waited nearly half an hour, controlling her impatience with difficulty, before Brandon came in. He was hatless and with- out a coat, proving that he had merely been visiting one of the other studios in the building. It was obvious that Mona Vail had known where he was all along and had deliberately and maliciously avoided sending for him.

His eyes expressed his surprise when he saw Nan waiting for him. "I say, this is an unexpected pleasure, Miss Farraday. Have you been here long?"

"About half an hour," Nan answered. He turned to Mona: "Why on earth didn't you call me? I told you I was in Hallett's studio, just fooling around, and to 'phone me if anyone came."

The girl shrugged disdainfully. "I have told you I'd never send for you again when you were visiting—not after the way you acted last time, suggesting that I was spying on you."

He seemed on the point of an angry retort, but checked himself. "What's up, Miss Farraday? Anything wrong?"

"May I speak to you alone—Mr. Brandon?" Nan asked. "Mona," he turned again to the girl, "will you be good enough to step into the anteroom for a few minutes."

Mrs. Vail made no reply, but

Nan saw the line of her mouth harden and a little spot of crimson flashed out on either cheek. Nevertheless, she took her magazine and left the room, drawing the door to after her.

There was no click of a closing latch, however, and Brandon, with a tiny significant smile on his good looking mouth, stepped to the door and closed it smartly.

She told him about Danforth's insistence that she had ordered her portrait painted by him and she must pay $3000.

Brandon muttered something forcefully under his breath. Aloud, he said: "The infernal boulder! Why, I was present when he asked you to let him paint it. I recall the afternoon quite well, because it was the first time I took you there to tea and he raved about your hair and your eyes—things I would like to have said, but lacking the artistic temperament and license, dared not."

He smiled at her audaciously, but she was too troubled to note the compliment.

"The point is: can he make trouble for me, if I don't pay?" she asked.

Brandon sobered. "I'm afraid he can, Miss Farraday," he said thoughtfully. "Of course he can't actually make you pay, but he can cause a lot of talk to circulate around and if he takes the matter into court and loses, as he undoubtedly will—"

"Oh, but it isn't so serious," Nan interrupted. "I can't stand, any more publicity after that dreadful Polinska affair—"

"I'm so sorry," he said gently. "I must be your bad angel. It's twice now that you've got into trouble through people I introduced to you in my studio. See here, I'm going in to have a talk with Danforth. Will you wait for me?"

Mona Vail re-entered the studio after he had left. She held her chin high and vouchsafed Nan no word.

It was quarter of a hour before Brandon returned and drew Nan into the hall.

"I don't want to ask Mona to go out again," she said furiously now. "Miss Farraday, I'm sorry as I can be, but I've failed. Danforth swears he'll have the money for that portrait, or make trouble. I'd have smashed his infernal head if he didn't wear glasses—and he was too cowardly to take them off."

Nan made a little pathetic, helpless gesture. "What am I going to do?" she murmured.

THE WAY OF A JEWELER. CHAPTER 29.

NAN went home despondently from Louis Brandon's studio. She spent a solitary evening, after a solitary dinner, figuring out a way of meeting Danforth's demand that she pay $3000 for the portrait he had painted of her.

She added and re-added the figures in her bank book, reminding herself bitterly that this was a familiar occupation, of late. She balanced her assets against her liabilities—the appalling bills that Madame Polinska had left for her to pay. The result was discouraging.

If she only had her car to sell, she thought. But alas, it was "somewhere in America" with the vanished Madame Polinska!

There were her jewels, however. Her rings and the emerald pendant, a few other ornaments of lesser value.

They would have to go, she decided. There was no other way. Her pride still refused to allow her to appeal to her husband. She couldn't ask him for help after only a few months of her year of freedom. To tell him that already she was in financial trouble—to admit that her boasted ability to look after herself had already led her into an impasse—would be too humiliating. No, clearly, confession was impossible.

The following morning, she locked her jewels in their case, tucked it under her arm and went forth to discover a pawnshop.

But when she reached the doorway under the three golden balls, saw the motley collection of shabby articles behind the dusty show window and glimpsed within, a dark, dirty little shop with a greasy looking proprietor behind the counter examining something that a frowsy woman customer had proffered, she turned and fled.

It was too tawdry—pawning things. Better to spend them outright in dignified fashion to a reputable jeweler.

At the shop she chose, a clerk, ingratiatingly smiling, came forward with: "Something I can show you, Madam?"

She laid her jewel case carefully on the counter and smiled sweetly. "I've come to sell, not to buy. I have here," she started to open the case.

His smile vanished as if by magic and his face assumed a bored, indifferent expression.

"You'll have to see Mr. Goldberg, the proprietor. He isn't in just now, but if you want to wait," he indicated a chair carelessly.

"Thank you," Nan murmured and seated herself, feeling the eyes of adjutant clerks upon her, and flushing hotly. It wasn't easy to admit publicly her plight by offering her trinkets for sale.

How different it was to buy! She waited—and it was a long time—customers drifted in. There was a girl with a corsage of lilies of the valley pinned to her frock, a young man with a lever-like air. They looked at platinum-and-diamond wedding rings. The girl's face was flushed and radiant as she bent over the tray and the man watched her with ardent eyes.

Nan remembered, with a pang, that she had looked at that way when she went with Danforth to select her wedding ring and his eyes had been just as worshipful. What a little while ago that was! She put the thought resolutely from her. It was an unpropitious time for such a memory.

A woman came in, who ordered a jeweled wrist watch, fabulously priced, with a casual air. Nan recalled that not so long ago, she could have done the same thing with the same casualness. And now she sat with her trinkets in her lap, humbly offering them for sale!

The proprietor came finally, a baldish man with cold, keen eyes, and unsmiling mouth. He led her into a small private office and seated himself at a table.

"What have you got?" he asked without preliminaries.

Nan spread her treasures out before him, and he moved them about with indifferent fingers, but at the sight of the emerald pendant, his eyes glared momentarily.

"There isn't much of value here," he said finally.

"But," protested Nan, amazed, "I paid—"

"Ah," he smiled thinly. "That's a different matter. You pay not only for the jewels, but for the workmanship. You have an ornament that is pleasing to you. But if I buy them from you, I have to break it up, reset it, add to it, to make it salable again. I could never use any of your settings again, therefore I have to pay for new workmanship."

"But the jewels!" began Nan.

He picked up one ring after another, rather contemptuously.

"This stone has a slight flaw. This one would be useless to me without contrasting stones. The diamonds in the dinner ring are too shallow to make a showing. They have no intrinsic value. This bracelet would have to be broken up and done over entirely. 'Really I'd hate to make you an offer for the collection. It would be so paltry. These trinkets are much more valuable to you than the money I could give you.'"

Nan was appalled. She felt herself growing chilled with dismay.

"But," she faltered, "can't you offer me something?"

He picked up the emerald pendant and studied it deliberately.

"This is pretty good—I'll tell you what I'll do—I'll take your other stones at the best price I can—which will really be a loss for me. And to get this pendant."

To Be Continued.

FATHER'S DAY.

WHAT is this in my Beloved's eye, that maketh it to glow as brightly as a California sunrise?

Yea, what is THIS in my Beloved's eye that maketh it to shine with vanity when he catcheth sign of his image in the slot-machine mirror?

What is this in my Beloved's eye that causeth it to sparkle with delight when he examineth his golf clubs and appraiseth the weather?

What is this in my Beloved's eye that maketh it to glitter with covetousness when he gazeth upon the rainbow-hued temptations of the haberdasher's window and with longing upon scarlet neckties and purple socks?

What is this in my Beloved's eye that causeth him to linger upon street corners, where he may behold the feminine parade pass by and to appraise every damsel as a jury in a beauty contest?

What is this in my Beloved's eye that maketh it to light up at the approach of every passing flapper, and to follow wistfully after blondes and brunettes alike?

What is this in my Beloved's eye that causeth it to glow with secret admiration, at his own reflection in the shop window, while he adjusteth his cravat, and tippeth his hat more jauntily over one ear?

What is this in my Beloved's eye that causeth it to linger thoughtfully upon the florist's window and to pause before the confectioner's window in meditation?

What is this in my Beloved's eye that maketh it to glisten with joyful anticipation, even as the eye of a small boy that beholdeth his first Christmas tree?

Behold, it is that "SATURDAY-AFTERNOON-LOOK!"

And who shall mistake it?

For verily, verily, upon five days of the week a man doeth his labors and gazeth soberly upon the world, seeing naught therein to delight him. But upon the Sixth Day, he fareth forth in search of diversion and adventure.

Yea, he is as a schoolboy that playeth hooky and goeth fishing. And all the world looketh GOOD to him! For this is Father's Day-Off!

What's Wrong With Homewreckers?

Dissatisfied With the Comforts of Life, They Would Tax Job's Patience With Their Pursuit of Luxurious Thrills.

And George's girls are growing up into fine women and George looks as if he is happier and better looked after than he ever was in his life.

Then there's Charlie—fine man, Charlie, handsome, attractive, witty, good-natured and agreeable. ## Titled English Woman Socialist Above is pictured Lady Cynthia Mosley, a staunch worker in the Socialist cause, in four attractive poses. She and her husband, Lord Mosley, a labor M. P., are in America for a three months' tour. Lady Cynthia reversed the Cinderella story. She started as the fairy Princess. The King and Queen of England attended their wedding in the chapel of St. James's Palace. The Queen of Belgium flew to London by plane for the affair. Lady Cynthia was Cynthia Curzon, daughter of the late Marquis Curzon and an American mother, who had been Miss Mary Lennox. For ten years in her girlhood she was close to the splendor of kings and queens. It was socialism which converted glass slippers into a coach into the workaday life of a labor partisan.

The First Parliament meets in the town of Westminster. While Henry III continued oppressing the people, a leader by the name of Simon de Montfort called two knights from each county and two citizens from each town to meet at Westminster to seek redress. De Montfort and most of his followers were slaughtered before the end of the summer, but the parliaments or "citizens' meetings," begun by them, have continued through more than six centuries.

Where a Beggar Child Rules the King

IN the tiny kingdom of Mull, beyond the Likiang Snow Range of Yunnan Province, China, there is as strange a system of caste as can be found anywhere in the world. There is a King, a Prince lama, an hereditary ruling family, and yet these royal personages must bow down before the son of a Tibetan beggar.

For the real ruler is the Living Buddha of the Mull Monastery. He is the head of the famous lamas of Mull. He it is who decrees the destinies of the realm and lives in pomp befitting the ruler of the land.

This Living Buddha is a youth of some 13 years who has been reared from the day of his birth to take his exalted position in the realm. He was chosen for his place purely as a result of the happy chance of the day and hour of his birth.

The Living Buddha is supposed to live forever, and when his mortal body dies, his reincarnation must be found and substituted for him. So, when the Living Buddha dies, he instructs his followers where to seek his successor, and they find the boy who was born at just about the hour of his predecessor's death. To this child they present some of the dead lama's possessions. If he grasps at the rosary, he is forthwith chosen to be the spiritual head of the land.

The child is reared most carefully to his duties and privileges. He lives in the lamasery where he is worshipped by all Mull, even the King.

Dressed in his golden hat and eken mantle, astride the King's charger, fully caparisoned, he is a most personable lad and scarcely seems weighed down by the importance of his position. True, he wears the lama robes of red wool gold brocade and a silken mantle embroidered with disks, and borders fall from his shoulders. But they do not offset the youthful bloom of his cheeks.

The lamas are decidedly the most important personages of their community. In most parts of the world, in four attractive poses. She and her husband, Lord Mosley, a labor M. P., are in America for a three months' tour.

Lifeboat History. LIFEBOATS were first used on the Thames in London, 141 years ago. A lifeboat was the invention of one Lukin, a woodworker and carriage builder. The craft of the lines of a Norwegian had a keel of iron and with air-tight compartments. It was used by the Government to adopt the lifeboat, and like most of the world in extreme poverty.

Clean Dish Cloths. Dish cloths should never be left in a wet, sodden pile after use. So become fatty and sour and unfit to wash anything. Wash them out in suds after each use and hang them in the air to dry.

A Hiding Place. One housewife has a shelf built underneath the drainboard in the kitchen sink. It is a very convenient place to hide a few things. There is no need to tell of the things of others at discretion.

FAMOUS FORTUNES

By BARBARA BAYNE

Henry Clay Frick, the "Coke King"

"I RECALL that by running bare footed most of the year I was able to make a pair of boots last two winters," said Henry Clay Frick, unashamed. It seems incredible that a man starting out so poor in life, with a limited education, should be employing thousands of men and worth thousands of dollars in his early thirties. A few years later he was classed as one of the six greatest business men in America, the largest owner of land and buildings, with a 250-acre park in Pittsburgh and a costly palace in New York containing one of the world's finest private collections of paintings, statuary and other priceless treasures of art.

His career, typically American, illustrates what a combination of brains, hard work, courage and concentration can accomplish without a college education or "pull."

"Hard work is the thing," said he. "From 1889 to 1895 I did not have a day's vacation. I think of the man who was already the 'Coke King' of the world and chairman of the Carnegie Steel Co. working from 7 a. m. until 6 p. m. for six years without rest!"

Because he took hold of the unsystematized company earning less than $2,000,000 a year, brought order out of chaos and in 12 years had an organization earning $40,000,000 a year, many steel men say of him, "Frick did more to make the Carnegie Steel Co. than Carnegie himself did."

Henry Clay Frick was born in 1849 on a farm in Pennsylvania which he left at 14 to find employment in a village store. But while measuring calico and weighing sugar his eyes held dreams of bigger things.

For a time he worked in Allegheny and Pittsburgh stores. Then a kind fate led him to the very heart of the Connellsville coal region, where he started in a flour mill and distillery until an opportunity came to buy an interest in a piece of land and start the new enterprise of coke-making. He went to Pittsburgh and persuaded banker Mellon to loan him $10,000 to finance the infant industry.

From 50 ovens it expanded to 12,000, owning three water plants, several short railroads, 1200 cars and 25,000 acres of coal land. Frick became the owner of nearly the whole Connellsville coke region, which yearly supplied enough coke to load a train long enough to girdle the globe.

In the panic of 1873 his partners went under, but Frick determined to stand by his guns. Though called a lunatic for doing so, he borrowed money enough to buy out his partners' interests and to gather in other bankrupt coal and coke properties. Before he was 30 years old he was a millionaire.

In 1882 he sold Carnegie one-half interest in his coke company, and in 1889 the "Coke King" became a partner in the Carnegie company.

Every check that Frick gave for benevolent purposes—and they were many—bore the pictured likeness of his little lost daughter. He died Dec. 2, 1919.

Why Health Means Beauty

By LUCREZIA BORI

MAINTAIN that the standard of general health is quite high among the present generation partly because the standard of beauty is high—and the enlightened woman knows she cannot have beauty without health.

Men are prone to say that woman's vanity is the indispensable preserver of her health, and I am inclined to agree with this viewpoint. Of course, her vanity enters, in wanting to preserve this state. But there is more than vanity at stake. Any woman likes to feel well so she can put the best that is in her into everything she does. In order to do this she must feel well, and must look well. If she is conscious of not looking well, she cannot feel at her best.

LUCREZIA BORI

To look her best she must feel well and alert and vigorous. Exercise is the best means to this end. The woman who grows sluggish in her movements, who allows herself to become veiled in an eternal lassitude, soon shows the effects of this. Her eyes lose their sparkle, and her movements lose their charm.

If you want to acquire this lasting state of health, the best thing you can do is to exercise and make your body strong. The best time to exercise is when you awake in the morning. This early stirring of yourself to action may be difficult at first, but once you become accustomed to it, you will rejoice in the feeling of power that it gives you. Your lungs will yearn to be filled with fresh air. The new feeling of alertness which this gives you will be a lasting pleasure. I assure you so resolve to take it up at once. This morning exercise only begins your day, but you can find some time in the daylight hours to get your outdoor exercise as well. If you do not have a chance for outdoor sports, you can take brisk walks in the open air. This is a wonderful way to keep your body fit and your beauty fine.

Chatterer Loses His Voice

Some folk I know I wish no ill. But gladly would their voices still.

—Old Mother Nature.

CHATTERER the Red Squirrel likes cold weather. He is naturally frisky, and cold weather makes him more frisky. He doesn't have to worry about his food, because he has several storehouses well filled. If he cannot find food elsewhere, he can always get it from one of these storehouses.

Now, when people feel good all over, they are very likely to want to make a noise. Chatterer is like that. He is very fond of the sound of his own voice, anyway. I don't know any one who likes the sound of his own voice any better, unless it is Sammy Jay. Between them Chatterer the Red Squirrel and Sammy Jay can make more noise than all the other little people in the Green Forest together.

This morning Chatterer was frisking about and chattering as only he can. With every word he jerked that little red tail of his. It was a wonder he didn't jerk it out by the roots. But he didn't. And the Green Forest rang with the sound of his voice. Chatterer didn't have a worry. Terror the Goshawk hadn't been about for so long that Chatterer had forgotten that he even existed. There was no one else in the Hawk family about at this time of the year. So Chatterer felt free to make as much noise as he pleased. He had discovered Prickly Porky in a poplar tree and he was having great fun calling Prickly Porky names and making fun of him. Prickly Porky didn't pay any attention to him whatever. He just went on about his business, which was filling his stomach with poplar bark. The fact that he wouldn't pay any attention to Chatterer made Chatterer provoked. You know there is nothing in the world so provoking as to try to attract attention and fail. So Chatterer scolded harder than ever.

Then something queer happened. Chatterer lost his voice. He lost it with his mouth wide open. He was just in the middle of saying something most unpleasant. And had you been looking at him when he lost his voice you would have thought his eyes were going to jump right out of his head. You would so! Chatterer didn't move. If he had been frozen stiff there he couldn't have been more motionless. You have no idea how quiet it seemed after all the noise he had been making. Even Prickly Porky noticed it and turned his head to look at Chatterer. Chatterer was staring down below. There was fright in those popping eyes of his. Prickly Porky's eyes are too dull for him to see far or much. He turned back to his eating. Already he had ceased to wonder what ailed Chatterer.

Still Chatterer did not move. He did not blink an eyelash, nor did he make the smallest sound. Below, looking up at him, was a small person all in white. He was smaller than Chatterer. The tip of his tail was black and it was that moving tip that had caught Chatterer's eyes. Had it not been for that black tip it is probable that Chatterer would not have seen that small person at all. Of course you know who it was. It was Shadow the Weasel. When Mother Nature gave Shadow that white coat, but left the tip of his tail black, she must have had in mind the other little people who have reason to so greatly fear Shadow. Shadow sat up and glared up at Chatterer. Then he bounded over to the foot of the tree and began to climb. Then, and not until then, did Chatterer move. With a snatched little cry he raced out to the tip of the branch on which he was sitting and
